Strict Laws Govern Fund-Raising for Political Campaigns, Even at Municipal Level

If you're running for office in Princeton, at least you don't have to lay out thousands for two-minute television spots.

But it takes money, even to be elected to local office, and the money comes from the pockets of the people right here in Princeton who are going to vote for you.

And it's accounted for--right down to the cost of the film to take a Polaroid picture of the candidate kissing a baby.

Under New Jersey law, notarized reports of contributions and expenditures must be filed with the New Jersey Election Law Enforcement Commission. The state requires candidates to file the name of the campaign treasurer, to set up a campaign account and to file the name of the bank. Every disbursement must come from that account and be reported--no cash quietly passing from hand to hand, says the law.

If there's a fund-raising cocktail party--and this is the favorite form of fund-raising in Princeton, for both Republicans and Democrats--the devoted partisan who bakes a ham and contributes it to the buffet, must declare an in-kind contribution to the candidate of $12.94, or whatever the cost of the ham. Nobody has sliced the law fine enough to decide whether the cost of fuel for cooking the ham should be figured in, too.

Any contribution that's over $100, of course, must be publicized. Borough Republicans say they have a contributor who gives $99 each year.

In Princeton, candidates gather in the money in a broad sweep of small donations. Curiously, in a community regarded as wealthy, neither party has one great big angel who pays all the bills.

"I wish we did!" said one campaign manager, feelingly.

Instead, there are donations of $5, $10, $25, sometimes $50, solicited by direct mail or paid as the donation at a cocktail party.

Borough Democrats have just mailed out an appeal for funds, sending it to all Democrats and "independents", the latter defined as everybody who didn't vote Republican in the June primary.

This year, thanks to the Buckley-Valeo Supreme Court ruling, you can spend as much on a local campaign as you can collect. (Not, your creditors hope, more than you can collect.)

Before, the New Jersey legal limit was 50¢ per candidate per voter in the last election, and while this was a higher ceiling than anything Princeton's parties needed, it was nevertheless a limit.

What the Supreme Court said, in effect, was that in campaigns where there isn't any public financing, as there is in a Presidential contest, it's

Re-Assessment Plans Show Township Properties Are Rated Around 75% of True Value, with Borough Substantially Lower

Complete property re-valuation, "starting with a blank card," isn't necessary for the Township, assessor Stuart Robson told Committee Thursday night, thereby offering the municipality a chance to save a big chunk of the $60,000 estimated cost of a total re-valuation.

Both Township and Borough are preparing to bite the bullet this year and start a re-examination of every piece of residential and commercial property in both municipalities. Mr. Robson is assessor for both Princetons.

He warned Committee that the Township has slipped so much that properties are now being assessed at about 80 percent of their true value, instead of the 100 percent technically required by law. The Borough's figure, according to the assessor, is about 50 percent.

When you re-value, you start at ground zero – Mr. Robson's "blank card" -- and do a complete measurement and examination of every piece of property, a process that takes at least 18 months and costs proportionately. When you re-assess, you simply use information already at hand, like building permits. This is cheaper.

Mr. Robson suggested for the Township a combination of the two: a re-assessment, with re-inspection of each property. The Borough, in his opinion, needs total re-valuation.

"There are a lot of patios and central air-conditioning out there that aren't on the record," he said darkly.

"Would we get more tax revenue if we did a re-valuation?" The mayor asked, but Mr. Robson said he didn't think it was needed.

The Borough hasn't re-valued since 1964, and has done no re-assessment since. The Township re-valued in 1966, updating with a re-assessment in 1971.

"The point is, to get us both -- Borough and Township – up to 100 percent at the same time," said Mayor Bleiman, commenting on the Borough's hope that both communities will undertake complete re-valuation.

"What about the county-wide computerized data base?" the mayor asked. "Where does this stand? It could be cheaper for us..."

"The county needs a $1 million computer," Mr. Robson replied. "It stands at zero."

MAY NAME CONSULTANT

To Help School Board. The consultant who will help the school board select a superintendent may be named at next Tuesday's 8 p.m. meeting of the board in Community Park.

The board still has Tuesday, October 5, as the evening when the public will be invited to make comments and suggestions, but the date won't be firm until the consultant has been chosen and has agreed to the date.

A brief agenda for next week's meeting includes adoption of policies on employing superintendents and consultants. The agreement with the schools' custodians is also expected to be ratified.

TOWNSHIP WILL MOVE

To Valley Road. The school board will indeed become the Township's landlord. Final agreements remain to be signed, but Township and Borough have agreed on terms allowing the Township to use the old section of the Valley Road building for municipal offices.

The Township would pay the school board $1 a year and assume all maintenance costs, according to Township Committee member Abbot Low Moffat, who has worked with Borough Council's Gus Escher on the agreements.

The Township would pay the school board $1 a year and assume all maintenance costs, according to Township Committee member Abbot Low Moffat, who has worked with Borough Council's Gus Escher on the agreements.

If capital costs occur-- burst boiler or a new roof-- the Township will pay a proportionate part of its share, based on the number of years the Township has occupied the building and the age of the building.

The Township would move everything except the police department into the old section of the Valley Road building, turning the whole of the present Township Hall over to the police. The present meeting room might be used as a court-room, or might simply become a second meeting room, said Joseph R. Nini, Administrator.

Valley Road's library-media center would become the new meeting room. The Township asked for the old section of the building, Mr. Nini says, so that it would have this room for meetings.

The annex building, now the home of engineering, zoning and building and welfare-- all in cramped quarters-- would be turned over to the recreation department, which is now in Valley Road. This would place recreation personnel closer to the swimming pool, tennis courts and the recreation complex generally.

Logistical problems are sizeable, Mr. Nini points out. The schools, for example, will have to move their offices out of the old section and into the new. Because of these difficulties, nobody will predict a moving day.

NO NEW LEADS

In Woman's Murder. A detective in the state police criminal investigative unit of Hopewell Barracks said Tuesday that police still have no suspects or new clues in the death last week of Sandra C. Kucks of 6 Merrit Lane, Rocky Hill.

Her bruised and partially-clad body was discovered last Tuesday afternoon in her station wagon in a wooded area at the end of Research Road. An autopsy the next day revealed that the 40-year old mother of three had been strangled.

Police are attempting to determine where Mrs. Kucks was before her murder. Last week, Detective Sergeant Robert L. McMahon said that there were no signs of sexual molestation.

The victim's husband, Howard H. Kucks Jr., told police that he had last seen his wife when she had left home Monday evening at 11:30. He reported her missing at 9:45 in the morning.

Her body was discovered at 3:36 by an employee of the Kepner-Tregoe Company. Research Road is a gravel service road on the company property off Route 518 in Montgomery Township.

Mrs. Kucks was a graduate of Southern Seminary in Buena Vista, Va. She was a member of Eve Kraft's Community Tennis program and was a highly-ranked amateur tennis player. She was a member of Trinity Church of Rocky Hill and the Auxiliary of the Medical Center at Princeton.

She is survived by her husband; a son, Bryce; two daughters, Candee and Melissa, all at home; her parents, Dana and Natalie Martin Carroll of Princeton; and a brother, Danny Carroll of Deal.

A private service was held at the convenience of the family. Contributions may be made to the Rocky Hill Library Fund.

INTRUDER FLEES

When Woman Screams. The screams of a 40-year old Township resident who awakened at 1:25 Monday morning when she heard her bedroom door open and saw a man standing in the doorway caused the intruder, police said, to run down the stairs and out the front door.

Entry was probably gained through an unlocked front door, police said. The woman was alone at the time.

Township Sgt. Michael Kopliner, assisted by police in two Borough patrol cars, searched the area without success.

The intruder was described as between 6 feet and 6-2, with dark skin, a hairy face, thin long neck and thin profile.

Political Fund-Raising

not constitutional to set a limit.

"Parties are more productive than mailings," says Nelson van den Blink, in charge of fund-raising for the Borough Democrats. "You need their votes more than you need their money, after all, and you want to get people's excitement up."

Here again, for cocktail parties, the charge is usually modest–$5 or so–to keep the base of support broad. For your donation, you get drinks, if you're at a Republican fund-raiser, or access to a cash (fund-raising) bar, if you're at a Democratic affair. Republicans say it's less bookkeeping to provide drinks on the house, and less of a hassle if you happen to take a loss. Republicans simply carry around a cache of campaign liquor from cocktail party to cocktail party. They're planning about half a dozen this fall.

Cash bar or no, there isn't much drinking at these affairs, both parties say, because after one or two, guests have to pay the rest of the admission price: listening to "just a few words" from the candidate.

What's in a Name? It's a great coup, and brings in the guests, to get a well-known office-holder. The Republicans love to have Congresswoman Millicent Fenwick, a known crowd-puller. Democrats like Senator Harrison Williams, himself a candidate this year like Mrs. Fenwick, or a perennial favorite, Congressman Frank Thompson.

It costs about $3,000 to $4,000 to run a campaign in Princeton. Advertising is the biggest expenditure, and beyond that are decisions: Bumper-stickers? Buttons? Last year's Hallowe'en Parade cost Borough Democrats $46.50 for refreshments, $35 for a magician, $30 for rental of the firehouse, $25 for a band...and $3 for a parade permit.

All this must be itemized for the state on forms that are lineal descendants of the income-tax form ("Do not attempt to complete Tables I and II until appropriate schedules have been completed...")

It is the job of the treasurer--and it's not a thankless job: political treasurers are most gratefully thanked by their party–to fill all this out. A first report must be filed 25 days before election, a second one seven days before the election, another 15 days after, and a report every 60 days thereafter until all debts are paid. (One candidate, elsewhere in New Jersey, is still filing on a '73 campaign.)

Procedures Vary. Democrats organize themselves differently from Republicans in Princeton. The Republican Club of Princeton serves both Borough and Township. It raises most of its money through $3 dues, deliberately kept modest to attract broad support and a big yearly dance.

The Club rents a campaign headquarters and staffs it, and regards this system as giving more support to candidates for the dollar than a divided system, which the Democrats have.

The Princeton Borough Democratic Campaign is just that, the Township's, ditto. The Princeton Community Democratic Organization, with Borough and Township members and about $1,000 in its treasury, has just announced that it will help finance a headquarters for all Democrats, (including Jimmy Carter) rather than finance individual candidates.

Democrats plan a fund-raiser October 10 at the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club, built around support for Marvin Trotman, and a cocktail party October 16 at the Sherwood Ross home on Library Place for across-the-board support for all candidates.

Township Democrats will raise money through a buffet at the Stuart Road home of Gordon Large on October 2.

Party Permits Needed. The Republican Club will have its half-dozen cocktail parties, but probably not the usual ladies' bridge.

Incidentally, campaign treasurers are required to get a $40.50 liquor permit from the Internal Revenue Service. Steep, but it's good for a whole year. The state also steps in, and asks $25 for a liquor license for an individual cocktail party.

It's a lot of work. Does it pay off?

Campaign managers with experience all say the same thing: nothing does as much good as slogging from door to door.

But you can't charge off shoe-leather as a campaign expense.

SEWER MEANS PROBLEMS

For Community Village. How does a municipality assess fairly for a sewer when one of the properties is a single entity comprising 239 separate connections?

That is the question facing Township Committee. It's the Stuart Road East sewer, built expressly to serve Princeton Community Village and its 239 apartments. Two other properties – one of them All Saints Church – are on the line. The Township, which has never sewered apartments before, doesn't know what to do. The municipality does have University-owned apartments but they were built on existing sewer lines.

The assessment against Princeton Community Housing, Inc. is $66,184. All Saints' tab is $2,215 and the third property, $1,384. Imposition of this assessment will mean increased rents for PCV residents, warned PCH attorney Henry Broad.

If the 35-acre PCV plot had been developed as Office-Research, in which zone it lies, the property would have been charged for only 21 connections, pointed out Mayor Jay Bleiman, using the formula of three connections per five-acre plot. He also observed that assessing PCV on the basis of its 239 apartments, handed the sewer to the other two property-owners "dirt cheap."

Another complicating factor is that, due to a technicality, a segment of the sewer has a deferred assessment. If that had been included, the PCV share would have been over $80,000.

Committee continued the hearing until the meeting of Thursday, October 14.

In other business, Committee agreed to make only as many curb cuts for bikes as it can make for last year's appropriation of $3,500. This means about 20.

The depth of the pond in the new recreation site behind the berm on State Road, will be the original eight feet. Committee decided to pay the $5,300 more to achieve that depth. Crews hit shale, which doesn't provide the dirt necessary to mix with the bentonite sealer that will keep water in the pond. Digging deeper will produce the necessary soil mix.

Anyone on the payroll July 19, when Committee decided to grant a two percent retroactive salary increase, will receive the increase even though not at present on the payroll.

Two appointments were made: Denis B. Woodfield to the board of trustees of the library; Mrs. Adela Wilmerding to the Shade Tree Commission.

Anonymous Offer Made to Pay Half of Cost Of Lighting Six Courts in Community Park

Some private citizens want to pay half the cost of lighting the six hard-surface tennis courts in Community Park, Township Committee member Josie Hall announced at Thursday night's Committee meeting.

She didn't say who the individuals were. Last month, the Township accepted the offer of two anonymous private citizens to donate a bike-way up The Great Road to Princeton Day School and Stuart Country Day.

The recreation board has approached both Borough and Township about the lighting (estimated cost: $30,000), and expects to discuss it next Tuesday at the board's 8:15 p.m. meeting in Township Hall.

The request drew the indignation of Committee member Abbot Low AMoffat: "It destroys the whole theory of capital budgeting!" he declared. Money for the lights–$17,000–is in the long-range capital budget for '77, but not for '76.

After the board has assembled data on lights, it plans a public hearing to reassure neighbors about glare and noise, according to Mrs. Hall.

trapped inside the car before she could be removed by First Aid workers. She was treated at Princeton Medical Center for a concussion, scalp and face lacerations.

Her passenger, Susan Peters, 44 Dodds Lane, was admitted to the Medical Center with a fractured hand and lacerations of the face and ear.

Ptl. Howard Sweeney, who is investigating, reported that Miss Fumia doesn't recall what happened. "Her mind is a blank." Charges, he said, are pending.

According to Ptl. Sweeney, the girls' compact, traveling north on Mount Lucas, veered off the right shoulder around 3:30, then crossed over into the southbound lane, skidding sideways for 165 feet before it struck a tree and flipped over on its roof. The two were pinned inside. Two sections of split rail fence on the property of Joseph Divlalo were damaged.

Cyclist Is Struck. Charles H. Milligan, 19, 23 Spelman Hall, Princeton University, was treated at McCosh Infirmary on campus for contusions and abrasions of the head, shoulder and leg he received when he was struck crossing Washington Road at Prospect on his bicycle. The mishap took place at 10:45 Thursday evening.

Struck on the left side, Mr. Milligan was hurled onto the car's hood by the impact. He slid forward and hit the windshield with his head and shoulder, shattering it.

Ptl. Peter Hanley issued a summons to the driver, Gladys J. Horgen, 27, Orchard Road, Skillman, for failing to obtain a New Jersey registration within 60 days of moving here from Staten Island. Ptl. Hanley also quoted the victim as admitting he had entered the road when the light was yellow for traffic traveling on Washington Road.

BOAT, MOTOR STOLEN
And Recovered. A 12-foot fiberglass rowboat valued at $250 and a $125 electric motor were stolen recently from a boat locker of the Princeton University Club on the Princeton-Kingston Road.

Both were recovered Sunday, however, near the Kingston Dam by owner, Richard Jessen, 546 Prospect. Police said that a door had been pried open to enter the club.

Four hubcaps valued at $40 each were stolen Thursday from a Lincoln parked in the Princeton Shopping Center near Ivy Manor. Police identified the owner as Herbert Palmer of Frenchtown.

In the Borough, two hubcaps were stolen, a tire slashed and a woman's coat ($75) stolen from a car parked between 7:30 and 9 Thursday evening in the Palmer Square West lot. It had been forced open. The victim is a Borough resident.

From a VW bus owned by a Princeton Seminary student and parked in the rear of Tennant Hall, a thief removed a wheel and tire, and a Nassau Street resident reported the theft of a front wheel of an English bicycle which was chained to a metal bar in a garage. Both thefts took place during the weekend.

In other thefts, a barbeque grill valued at $65 was stolen from an unlocked Stockton Street garage, and a $250 stereo cassette tape deck was taken from a display area of Tech Hi-Fi, 1 Palmer Square.

There were three more citizen band radio thefts. A single side band unit valued at $325 was taken from a car in a garage on Bayard Lane– both the car and the garage were unlocked– and a vent window was broken to remove a $100 unit from a car parked in the YMCA lot. The owner is a Township resident.

Another Township resident lost a $169 CB after his locked car was entered Sunday morning between 10 and 11:30 while it was parked in a Park & Shop lot. Ronald Holliday investigated.

FOUR ARE FINED
For Red Light Violations. Four Princeton area residents were fined Monday in Borough court for red light violations.

Judge Barry Kline, sitting in for the vacationing Judge Philip Carchman, fined Walter Skibitsky, 159 Carter Road; Keith Lietzke, 24 Linden Lane; and Deborah Carr, RD 4, $15 each. Judge Kline suspended the $10 fine against John W. Courtleigh, 938 Alexander Street, but ordered him to pay $10 court costs.

James B. Newman, Hopewell, was fined $20 for careless driving and $5 for having no registration in his possession. A careless driving charge against Ida J. White, 26 Green Street, drew a $10 suspended fine and $10 court costs.

$15 SHIRT SHOPLIFTED
Trenton Man Charged. Herbert E. Adams, 26, of Trenton, was stopped outside Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center last week and charged with allegedly shoplifting a $15 shirt.

He was arrested by John C. Kernan of the store's security department and charged by Det. Frank Boccanfuso. Adams is scheduled to appear in Township court October 20.

TWO MEN ARRESTED
On University Campus. Two out-of-town residents, apparently doing their own thing, were arrested last week on the Princeton University campus and charged with trespassing.

George F. Baier Jr., 31, of New Brunswick was charged Monday evening by Proctor Susan Tamicello after be had allegedly been in a shower room in 1915 Hall observing a woman student taking a shower. Taken to Borough police headquarters by Patrolmen Kerry Klink and William Clark, Baier faces an appearance in Borough court on October 6.

Peter Rand, 20, of Neshanic Station was arrested shortly after 3 Friday morning in the radio room of WPRB, the university station, where Proctor Samuel McKelvey told police he discovered him playing records. He was later taken to Borough Headquarters by Ptl. John Reppy and Ptl. Peter Hanley for processing.

EXHIBIT, SALE OCT. 2
Of Lapidary Jewelry. Gems, fossils, minerals, and hand-crafted lapidary jewelry are among the items to be offered at the fourth annual gem and mineral show. Sponsored by the Down to Earth Lapidary and Mineral Club, it will be held on Saturday, October 2, from 9 to 5 in the inner courtyard of the Princeton Shopping Center. Exhibits of mineral classification, and demonstrations of lapidary techniques, silversmithing and faceting will take place throughout the day.

So Long, Farewell, Goodbye

Knock, knock

Sad, sad

I wish that it
Would stay!

Summer's many fans were planning to attend a farewell party for their favorite season Wednesday afternoon, with its autumnal replacement scheduled to arrive at 5:48. Hard to believe, but before another changing of the guard on December 21, snow will fly.

For the present, a touch of cooler weather has arrived to make the approach of the fall season. It will keep skies generally fair through the weekend, and provide average daytime temperatures that may fall short of 70.

FUND DRIVE BEGINS

$713,000 Is Goal. The American tradition of helping one's neighbor which began with the settling of the country in the 1600's continues today through organizations such as the United Fund.

The Fund makes sure that permanent, professionally staffed agencies are available to help less fortunate neighbors. It provides recreational activities and health support for the young and the old, those who are least able to help themselves.

By giving to the 1976 United Fund-Red Cross Campaign of the Princeton area, one is able to help neighbors in Cranbury, East Windsor, Griggstown, Hightstown, Kingston, Montgomery, Plainsboro, Princeton, Rocky Hill, West Windsor, and adjacent areas of Hopewell, Lawrence and South Brunswick Townships.

A United Fund donation, makes possible the YMCAs and the YWCA, the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts, the Red Cross, the Visiting Nurses and all the other agencies that supply these communities with services from child day-care centers for working mothers to home-care assistance for the ill or incapacitated. Last year more than 28,000 people used the health, welfare, and recreation facilities provided by these non-profit agencies.

The United Fund goal this year is $713,000, an increase of 13.5 percent over the actual amount raised last fall and the most the 38-year organization has ever attempted to raise. Every penny of it is needed to support the 18 United Fund Agencies and the local Red Cross chapter, all working hard to maintain their current level of services and in some cases to add new services.

One reason for the increased need this year, over and above the normal inflationary rises, is the fact that the United Fund Board accepted one new and important service as a beneficiary in 1977. This agency is the local chapter of the Association for the Advancement of the Mentally Hnadicapped, which will receive a first year allocation of $10,000 to work with mentally handicapped adults. Through a community support system these individuals are helped to live as normal a life as possible. Some 600 volunteer solicitors will soon be asking for tax-deductible donations. All are contributing their time as well as their money to make the Campaign a success.

FOUNDER'S DAY SET

In Griggstown. Among the early settlers of New Jersey were four brothers by the name of Griggs. Benjamin, born in 1690, Daniel, Samuel and Thomas were sons of Elizabeth and John Griggs of Gravesend, Long Island, New York.

Benjamin Griggs built a Grist Mill on the Millstone River before 1733. It was for him that Griggstown was named. A celebration in his honor will be held in Griggstown on Saturday, October 9, between 11 and 5.

Admission to the grounds of the Griggstown Reformed Church of $1 for an adult and 25 cents for children under 12 will include a tour of the "Old Manse"; demonstrations of old crafts such as soap making, pottery, wool carding and spinning; displays of quilts, local artifacts, Indian arrowheads, and old farm equipment; and a walking tour of Griggstown with a map pointing out places of interest.

Homemade goods will be offered for sale, and a lunch consisting of homemade breads, colonial soups, apple pie and gingerbreads will be available. Music will be provided by the Blawenburg Band, and hayrides and old fashioned games for all ages will take place throughout the day. Orders may be placed for the book "Episodes in the History of Griggstown", written by Laura P. Terhune and published by the Griggstown Reformed Church.

To Aid Vocational Students. A college dropout is about to graduate a prize-winning chef from one of the country's best cooking schools, the Culinary Institute of America, and another student who might never have bothered because she faced four hours of commuting, is well on the way to becoming a legal secretary.

David Kimmel, a Princeton High School graduate who left college because he didn't see how he could ever use what he was learning, wanted desperately to attend school where he could pursue cooking, his real interest in life. Mr. Kimmel has said, "I could never have done it without a Career Development award that helped pay my tuition." Deborah Woolsey, a Lawrence High School graduate who believes women should have jobs and earn money so they don't have to "depend on anyone," is able to live in New York and attend Katherine Gibbs because she too has received a CDA award.

These are only two of the many students from local schools who have been helped to continue their educations after high school. Many students attend conventional colleges where scholarships are available. But for the student who has vocational interests -- secretarial, marketing, retailing, accounting, management, auto mechanics, or fashion, to name but a few – there have been no such scholarships. CDA, which was begun by Educational Testing Service in 1969, fills this gap, and has aided 80 students since it became the country's first such program.

Now administered by volunteer leaders in business and education, CDA has opened its 1976-77 annual fund-raising drive. According to fund-raising chairman, Fred Blaicher of Palmer Square, Inc., $10,000 must be raised to continue this program. A large share of funds come from area business, but individual donations to help support this unusual and necessary program may be sent to Career Development Awards, 131 Randall Road.

CAREERS LAUNCHED: David Kimmel and Deborah Woolsey are on their way to realizing their career hopes, thanks to a boost from Career Development Awards, a community vocational scholarship program. David will graduate soon from the Culinary Institute of America and Deborah is learning to be a legal secretary at Katherine Gibbs in New York.

I-95? NO!

Say Republicans. Protesting construction of I-95, Township Republican candidates William Cherry and Hugo Hoogenboom suggested this week that I-95 funds be used to construct the 92-A bypass around Princeton.

Mr. Cherry pointed out that under a new law, unused Federal highway funds may now be used for intra-state roads, like the bypass. Both candidates believe that the bypass, planned to run north of Princeton and connect routes 206 and 27 with US 1 and the turnpike, would be the solution to Princeton's traffic problems on Route 206.

"Some people have claimed that I-95 would help relieve congestion on Route 206 but I feel this is clearly not the case," Mr. Hoogenboom said.

The candidates also urged the state to include the turnpike alternative in the Environmental Impact Study of I-95.

DANTON TO RETURN

For Aparri Visit. In mid-November– from November 17– Henry Danton, former ballet master at the Aparri Ballet School, will visit Aparri and a reception is being planned for him by Mila Gibbons, director of the school.

Friends and former students of Mr. Danton are asked to call Ms. Gibbons if they wish to help in planning the event and determining a date.

A former soloist in the Sadlers Wells Ballet, now the Royal Ballet, Mr. Danton was a partner of both Margot Fonteyn and Moira Shearer. He taught at Aparri for seven years before accepting an assignment to become ballet master for the National Ballet of Colombia in Bogota. He will be teaching this fall at East Carolina University.

Loop the Loop!

New schedules for the loop bus are now ready, and you can pick one up at Borough Hall, Township Hall, TOWN TOPICS, Cox' Store, all banks, the YM-YWCA, the public library, the hospital, the Whole Earth Center, the credit office at Bamberger's in the Shopping Center and in the Shopping Center's own office.

Transition from familiar, cozy old blue and white buses to the regular Mercer Metro Trenton buses has been confusing sometimes – for drivers as well as for passengers. There's a story going around about a determined passenger who wasn't going to get on that bus, nossir! It wasn't blue and white and it wasn't driven by her old friend, and would YOU get on a bus driven by a stranger? Well!

You can identify Inner Loop and Outer Loop by the sign, taped with blue, on the front bus window near the door.

Saturday shopping? The Inner Loop has Saturday service.

LION TRAINER COMING

With Circus Monday, Alberto Zoppe, a fifth generation circus performer and an all-around animal trainer, will be coming to Princeton on Monday with Hoxie's Great American Circus.

Signior Zoppe has been featured with all the top circuses of the world and appeared in such movies as "The Greatest Show on Earth," Walt Disney's "Toby Tyler," and "Thoroughly Modern Millie" with Julie Andrews.

His family founded one of the first circuses in Italy in 1842. Alberto came to Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey from Italy in 1948 and for the next five years was a centering attraction there.

This year the Zoppe family is appearing with Hoxie's Great American Circus, scheduled to come to Princeton Monday at the corner of Hightstown-Clarksville Road. His twelve-year-old daughter Carla is already a graceful ballerina on the back of a galloping horse; nine-year-old Giovanni is a clown in the riding act; and Sandy and little Tosca appear in a dog act.

Father Alberto has recently taken up lion training. He puts his head in the mouth of a lion and even has a lion riding horseback in the open circus ring. Other attractions are high aerial acts, funny clown, performing elephants, galloping ponies, and balancing artistes all set to music by a circus band.

Hoxie's Great American Circus plays 200 cities and towns throughout the eastern United States each year, helping civic and charitable groups raise funds for projects.

Two performances will be given, one at 4 and another at 8. Tickets are available from members of the Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce, 921-7676.

BOSTON HARBOUR TEA

On December 16, 1773 a group of American patriots boarded three English ships in Boston Harbour and threw the tea aboard into the water, in protest against the duty imposed on tea by the Government of King George III. Three months later, on March 7, 1774, at a second Boston Tea Party, 16 chests of tea from Davison Newman & Co. were also dumped in the Harbour. This was the prelude to the American War of Independence. No duty is payable now.

CLINtC TO MOVE

To Penns Neck School. The Lewis Clinic for Educational Therapy, which opened a year ago in October at 16 John Street with six children, now has nearly 40 full-time students and is looking forward in November to moving to new quarters in the Penns Neck School on Route 1 and Alexander Road.

The clinic provides a comprehensive learning program on a full and part-time basis throughout the year for children with learning difficulties. Pre-school through high school age students are admitted after an initial evaluation at the clinic to programs which are designed to help the intellectually-capable student who is not achieving in regular school because of late or irregular developing learning skills.

The clinic director, Mrs. Marsha Lewis of Hodge Road, has had ten years experience working in private and clinical settings with aphasic, autistic, brain damaged and learning disabled children. A vivacious and pretty young woman who also has had the beginnings of an operatic career in her native Canada, Mrs. Lewis has assembled a staff of ten learning specialists, including a full-time speech therapist.

Believing that the brain is not compartmentalized and that a child is a multi-sensory being, she advocates a multi-sensory approach which includes the teaching of auditory, speech and motor skills as well as visual and perceptual training. The pupil-teacher ratio is one-to-four in individual and small group settings.

Greatest emphasis is placed on the development of language ability – reading, handwriting, spelling, comprehension, creative writing and study skills. Math, social studies and science are also covered, using special teaching techniques applied to the curriculum supplied by the regular school.

Through the generosity of the New Jersey State Museum and its director, the clinic has a lending library of books, films, tapes and art work as well as programs in children's theater and music. Swimming and indoor-outdoor sports are part of a special gym program geared to developing fine and grass motor ability. The gym classes are held at the YMCA under the supervision of Mrs. Carolyn White.

"Dyslexic children are not handicapped children," says Mrs. Lewis. "They are different children with unique, identifiable learning difficulties. They have normal or often above-average intellectual ability, but the circuits of their personal computers do not process language-related information channeled through their ears and eyes in the acceptable normal manner. Since teaching techniques are geared primarily to the normal child, the needs of the learning-disabled child are special."

Further information regarding full time or part time programs, facilities, application forms and testing appointments are available by calling the clinic secretary at 924-6889, or writing the Lewis Clinic for Educational Therapy, 16 John Street.

WALKERS DUE THURSDAY

Protesting India Regime. A Walk for Human Rights organized by Indians for Democracy is scheduled to arrive in Princeton Thursday around noon. The walk began Monday at Independence Hall in Philadelphia and will end at the United Nations in New York on October 2.

Anand Kumar, one of the walkers and a graduate student at the University of Chicago, will participate in a public meeting at 4 sponsored by the World Order Studies colloquium of the Princeton University Center of International Studies. He will speak on "The Changing Order in India." Another speaker will be Rajani Kothari, now of Columbia University's School of International Affairs, a one-time advisor to Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and now a critic of the regime.

Later in the evening the walkers will hold discussions with members of the Indian community here. The walk has been endorsed by the Princeton unit of the fellowship of Reconciliation and its objectives have been endorsed by Princeton Friends Meeting.

ENVIRONMENT IS TOPIC

Of Montgomery Series. The Montgomery Community Center has scheduled six Wednesday evening presentations, each dealing with a particular segment of the natural environment. The first will be held next Wednesday and will feature Elizabeth Woodford, a field naturalist, talking on the ecology of the New Jersey Pine Barrens and showing colored slides.

Other speakers and topics will include George Johnson, naturalist and photographer with a film on the wildlife and scenery of the Rocky Mountains; Adele Mitchell of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watershed Association on water supply and land use in central Jersey; Joyce Schmidt, an activist for environmental legislation, on clean air and energy; Dr. Mike Piburn, an environmentalist, on the environment and the human crisis; and Leonard Rue, a naturalist writer and photographer summing it all up in "New Jersey 200 Years Later."

All sessions will be held in the Montgomery High School Media center at 8 p.m. Series tickets at $5 may be purchased under the regular registration procedures for MCS. Single lecture admission will be $3 at the door. Senior citizens will receive a 50 percent discount.

CRAFTS ON VIEW

Saturday at Lawrenceville. In recognition of the nation's Bicentennial, The Lawrenceville School and the Lawrence Township Arts Council will present a day-long demonstration of Colonial Crafts on the Lawrenceville School campus, Saturday, from 10 to 4. The day will feature authentic demonstrations of baking, bookbinding, carpentry, chair caning, needlework, iron forging, theorem painting, and similar crafts on The Circle at the heart of the school's campus.

A Police Reminder...

Chief Frederick Porter said this week that he wishes to remind Township property owners that the bow and arrow season on deer runs from October 4 through November 6.

He advises those who do not want hunters on their property post "No Hunting" signs around the perimeter of their land and stagger signs throughout the interior. The owner's name must appear on each sign.

Such posting is important, he commented, "if police are to apprehend anyone hunting on property without the owner's consent." Hunters have a legal right to hunt on land that is not posted, Chief Porter said.

A leading authority on nutrition has recently written: "To achieve the most youthful healthy appearance along with good food itself, we need from one to two grams of nucleic acid per day. It does not matter much whether they come from sardines or soybeans, provided we avoid excess cholesterol and calories ... I have seen patient after patient show some improvement of nucleic acids without vitamin supplements, but greater improvement with them. Combined with the nucleic-acid diet, they add up to a more youthful appearance, more vigor, and a fundamental improvement in health."

Elizabeth Ralph of Aukland, New Zealand, whose "family" will be Mr. and Mrs. John Keigler. Attending PDS is Anne Nesbakken of Oslo, Norway, who will spend her year with Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Blackburn, Jr. Inaugurating Stuart's first year as an AFS chapter is Maria Isabel Rodriguez from Cali, Columbia, whose host parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Flemer.

Currently, Richard Besser, son of Dr. and Mrs. William Besser, is completing a year in Sydney, Australia under the sponsorship of AFS. Three Princeton girls spent this past summer abroad with the AFS program. Claire Treves has returned from Bagio City, Phillippines, and Fifi Laughlin from Guayaquil, Equador, to their studies at PDS. Ellen Dunham is a freshman at Princeton University following her summer in Darwin, Australia. Miriam Lewin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lewin, spent a year in Grenoble, France, where she passed her state examinations, the baccalaureate, before returning to begin her freshman year at Yale.

Interested Students Apply Now. Any junior or senior at PHS, PDS or Stuart who is interested in participating in the AFS Abroad program for next year or this coming summer should attend a meeting, Wednesday, September 29 at 8 p.m. in the PHS Library. Parents should accompany students. Information regarding the programs will be available and applications may be made.

If it is impossible to attend this meeting, information may be obtained from Mrs. MaryAnne Opperman, PHS parent representative, at 924-5106; Mrs. Mary Murdoch, PDS parent representative, at 924-1373, or Mrs. Peter Mark, Stuart parent representative at 924-0191.

The purpose of the AFS Student Exchange Program is to give young people from foreign countries the experience of living in this country, not as tourists, but as part of a family, school and community. Equally important is the opportunity for American students to participate in a similar program in other lands. AFS was originated by men who served as ambulance drivers in the World Wars who brought the first group of high schoolers to this country in 1948.

BACK TO SCHOOL SET

At Prtnceton High. Back-to-School Night at Princeton High School is scheduled for Monday evening at 8. Parents are asked to report to their child's home group room for a ten-minute meeting and to receive their schedule for the evening. A Monday class schedule will be followed, with each period lasting ten minutes.

Parents will have the opportunity to meet the teachers and learn about individual course objectives and to gain an overview of each particular course. Because of time limitation, individual student progress will not be discussed. Unassigned periods may be spent in media and resource centers throughout the building as well as in guidance offices.

Refreshments sponsored by the PTO will be served in the cafeteria and PTO membership dues of $1 per person will be collected.

A FASHION REVUE

From Robert Varga. Before a large and most enthusiastic audience, Robert Varga Inc. presented a Fall-Winter Fashion Revue at McCarter Theatre this past Monday evening.

This was meant to be an evening of theatre as much as a fashion show, and indeed it was. There were seventeen scenes with models, dancers, lights and music. The fashions were lovely, and despite (or perhaps partially because of) several far-from-perfect moments such as an out-of-step chorus line, it was an enjoyable evening.

Much credit should be given to the models, who were not embarraased by any such moments, but instead appeared to appreciate the humor and enjoy themselves as much as the audience.

The show opened with Anne Klein & Co.'s brown and toast sportswear. Below-the-knee culottes with a brown suede vest, pantaloons with a checked sweater vest and pinstripe pants worn with a short zipper-front suede jacket were all part of this collection.

This group also featured a combination of brown velvet with a sage plaid in the form of shawls, capes, blazers, pants, and mid-calf skirts-- making this year's fashion look quite clear.

The colors are dark with a few bright touches here and there, and the styles lean heavily towards comfortable, classic, easy-to-wear clothing. Boots are obviously essential-- not only to be worn with the longer skirts, but with pants which, if not already culottes or pantaloons, should certainly then be tucked into the boot tops.

One of the handsomest classics came from Geoffrey Beene's Bag which contained a skinny button-front grey herringbone skirt worn with a solid grey sweater (with three buttons for interest) layered over a blouse. Other classics included Scottish kilts with matching shawls, a blue corduray pantsuit, and Lassere Couture's chorus line of gabardine pants and matching sweaters in loads of colors.

Tones of Grey. These may be classics, but they have a definite 1976 look to them. The colors, particularly the use of grey in all tones, contributes to this, but even more important is the frequent addition of a cowl neck sweater with the collar pulled up and worn as a head covering.

Active spartswear has become more and more important and its influence can even be found among town clothes. For instance, a beige striped suit with a front and back pleated skirt has a hooded, blaused jacket with a definite sweatshirt look -- trimmer, however, and very handsome. Also, interestingly, the stripes are horizontal on the jacket and vertical on the skirt.

The most fabulous active sportswear designs, however, definitely belong to Jean-Charles Castebajac, Paris' hot new designer. He loves bright colors and even combines some of them in reversible coats, such as a long quilted parka that goes from bright green to yellow or a long hooded flannel poncho that comes red with either blue or green.

With the exception of women's black tuxedos which were presented in a classic Fred Astaire routine, the evening outlook is anything but tailored. The fabrics are soft and slinky, while the styles favor dresses, and sexy ones at that.

These may be long or cocktail length, but chances are that one shoulder will be bare and that the waistline will be evident. Dark colors are still popular here but the bright touches were more in evidence. Particularly striking was a black velvet skirt worn with a metallic blouse set off by a handsome ruffled royal blue crepe de chine shawl.

Throughout the evening men's fashions were also presented, many from Anne Klein's Mark of the Lion collection which in one scene teamed grey flannel and a grey plaid with russet sweaters and scarves. Other important notes for men were the velvet blazers in tones of black and grey, as well as the Lassere gabardine pants and matching sweaters which have been designed for both sexes.

The fashions shown represented merchandise from all three Varga stores. Designer fashions are at Robert Varga Lawrenceville (Route 1 at Hopatcong Drive,) contemporary styles at Robert Varga Independence Mall (2455 South Broad Street,) and the young ones at Robert Varga Avant Garde (1784 North Olden Avenue.)

All in all, it was an excellent fashion show, and we certainly hope Robert Varga will repeat it next year.

EMPHASIS ON UNIFORMS

But Bailey's Has Much More. It is always unusual to learn of a store that has been owned and managed by the same family for almost a half century. This is the case with Bailey's, however. Started by Murray Bailey in the late 1920's, he continues to be active in his business and in recent years has been joined by his son and daughter-in-law.

A major emphasis here is on uniforms, which today are no longer simple white dresses. Instead they come in a range of colors and in all the fashionable styles.

The layered look, with either pantsuits or smocks, is particularly popular. In fact according to Mrs. Bailey (daughter-in-law) smocks are probably their biggest single item, and therefore this area has been expanded.

She said, "Waitresses like them, and they are especially good for nurses who deal with children and like to look gay." Priced from about $9 to $15, we liked the green or blue ones with gingham trim and a red one printed with small flowers and cats. They of course team well with white slacks which are conveniently arranged just below.

Jumpsuits continue to be fashionable and these are part of the uniform world too. At Bailey's we saw one with short sleeves, a zipper front and roomy pockets in red, blue or the more traditional white. Naturally, it's easily washable and can be worn year round by adding a turtleneck for a layered effect, $15.98.

The selection is truly incredible. Mrs. Bailey says, "Most anything they make in uniforms we have." This includes shoes; nurses' hats; jackets and lab coats for men as well as women in white, gold, blue or green; the black jumpers worn at the Nassau Inn; Princeton Hospital's pink volunteer uniform; and lots of dresses which continue to be important too.

As in all clothing areas there is a size and price range and at Bailey's the sizes for women go from 3-4 to 52 and the prices from about $8 to $38.

Leotards, Tights, Too. Also important here is Danskin's line of ballet leotards and matching tights. The basic long-sleeved scoop-necked one

Home Decorating Course Offered by Huffman-Koos

The ABC's of home decorating will be offered in a new kind of interior decorating course being offered at the Huffman-Koos Showplace Store in Somerville.

The course is for the person whose limited budget demands a do-it-yourself approach, but still wants professional looking results. "Putting a room together so it has that professionally-decorated look is a matter of following a few basic rules", says Kathleen Stark, Interior Designer for Huffman-Koos, "and anyone can learn these rules."

According to Ms. Stark, VIDEO-DECO is a nationally successful program in interior decorating, consisting of six 90-minute classes, in which the basic rules are taught and individual problems are handled.

The student receives a decorators packet text and all materials plus a closed-circuit color TV tour of 400 "idea" rooms.

The cost is $40 for the six once-a-week sessions beginning October 12. "We know that 95 percent of the people must work within a limited budget. And this course shows them how".

The course covers how to set priorities, getting the most for your decorating dollar, using the furnishings you already treasure, learning period to contemporary styling, and mixing these styles effectively, choosing the right colors and fabrics, while avoiding expensive mistakes.

"No artistic ability or previous decorating experience is necessary," says Ms. Stark, "just the desire to want a home or apartment to be proud of."

Registration for the classes is now being accepted at the Huffman-Koos Somerville store, and are being offered during the day or the evening, for the convenience of the working person or student.

Tour Guides Thanked.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I wish to thank the 17 Princeton High School students who served their one community (Borough and Township) as Tour Guides this summer. They provided walking tours three times daily (working 419 hours) for hundreds of tourists. Car and bus tours were also available.

Mrs. Carrington and the Historical Society deserve thanks for their sponsorship, management and coordination of these tours in conjunction with the maintenance of a Vistors' Center at the Dinky Station.

On behalf of the visitors whom I met, they wished me to convey their appreciation.

Outdoor Concerts Successful.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The swan song to this season's Summer Sounds – the series of free outdoor concerts in Princeton – must include a note of thanks to the many community groups who made the ten weekly concerts possible:

The Princeton Youth Fund for funding the program.

The Princeton Arts Council for its guidance and experience in performing ventures.

The Princeton Recreation Department for full staff assistance.

The Princeton Shopping Center for co-sponsoring two concerts.

Westminster Choir College, Princeton University and Palmer Square, Inc. for making available delightful greensward and rain locations.

The Princeton Barbershoppers, Arnie Roth's Dixieland Band and the Blawenburg Concert Band for generously waiving fees.

The first-rate rock bands of local young musicians ("J.V. and the Gold Coast Band", "Modulus" and the "Castle Browne Band") for performing to the immense enjoyment of large and youthful audiences.

Our local media for spreading the word about the series.

And finally, thanks to our student members of the Summer Sounds Concert Committee whose ideas and help sparked the entire program.

We welcome any suggestions for next year's Summer Sounds. Please contact Denise King at the Recreation Department.

comes in at least 20 colors, and Danskin adds more stylish ones all the time. You can now dance in a leotard with a tank top, a fitted bodice with a v-neckline, one that prettily wraps closed, or the newest addition – a low back long-sleeved one that comes in black only, $6.25 to $13.50.

Although this is not a children's store, Bailey's does carry ballet clothing for them. The leotards come in a tank suit and in a short or long-sleeved basic style in black, pink, plum or several blues, $5.50 to $6.50. There are tights to match, and the all-important slippers can be found here too (for children as well as adults) in pink or black.

As many people already know, Danskins are not just for dancing. This company also makes bodysuits in a long-sleeved turtle-neck style in eight colors or in this year's very fashionable cowl-necked sweater design, $10.50 and $12.50 respectively.

Then just for fun, look at Danskin's leg warmers which come in many stripes as well as a handsome off-white popcorn stitch, $7.25 to $7.75. Although these are meant for ballet dancers to keep their muscles warm between performances, they are bound to be popular with young.

Bailey's also has sportswear for women, which features a tailored conservative look. There are washable shetland and acrylic sweaters (crew, v, and cardigan ones) in many heather colors, $11.98 and $12.98; all cotton turtlenecks, $7.98; Ship 'n Shore shirts in plaids, stripes or solids, from $9.98; and pants by Wrangler and Levi.

Mrs. Bailey explained, "We try hard to keep a moderate price range in a town that has a lot of higher priced lines." Therefore, this year you may see more Wrangler corduroy pants here than Levi ones because they were better priced, $14.95 and they are in dark green, brown, navy and burgundy.

The India imports are strong items in this department, and they really can be worn all year as the winter styles come in heavier fabrics. For instance, we saw an eggplant flannel shirtwaist dress with long sleeves and a tucked bodice as well as a two piece dress in an earth brown poor cloth (very heavy cotton,) $19.98 and $24.98.

And, of course, there are lots of shirts and embroidered smocks that look so well with jeans, in addition to some Indian silver jewelry and scarves.

Located at the Princeton Shopping Center, Bailey's is open Monday through Saturday from 10 until 5:30 and Monday and Friday evenings until 8.

BUSINESS

In and Around Princeton

New fixtures throughout, wide-wide aisles, a through renovation and 24,000 square feet. That's the new Foodtown of Rocky Hill, in the Montgomery Shopping Center on Route 206.

Opening day this Wednesday launches a seven-day-a-week, operation for the big new market. Hours will be 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Sundays through Saturdays, or Mondays through Mondays, or however you stack your week.

Foodtown is proudest of its 5-Star brand meats, and of the fact that it sells U.S. Choice and nothing else. No ungraded meat, such as many supermarkets carry. And custom service for any particular cut.

There's a bakery, and the market will offer baked-on-premises bread, fresh rolls, pies, cakes and pastry. Imported delicacies at the deli counter, dietetic and health foods in a special section, "cheeses from all over the world."

For the Jewish holidays, there is a series of specials, including gefilte fish, Vita party snacks, creamed herring, pickle strips and Foodtown's own honey.

A large frozen food department-- one of the largest in this part of the state, Foodtown says-- will have Mrs. Paul's fish products, Foodtown's own brands as well as Birdseye and Rath.

In the produce department, Foodtown has extra-fancy specimens and the specials here this week are Barlett pears at 29 cents a pound and honeydews for 79 cents.

Toiletries and cosmetics at Foodtown are all sold at discount prices. This means Foodtown's own brands, in baby powder, mouthwash, cotton swabs, toothbrushes and other products in the health-and-beauty field.

Incidentally, although Foodtown has automatic computing registers at the check-out counter, there is no computerized pricing.

For detailed lists of opening-week specials, see the color insert accompanying this issue of TOWN TOPICS.

OVERALL....IT'S BIG! The new Foodtown in the Montgomery Shopping Center embrases 24,000 square feet. (Cliff Moore Photo)

BOOK PUBLISHED

On College Admissions. A new book to help students through the increasingly complex admissions process has been written by Karen C. Hegener, co-founder and vice-president of Peterson's Guides and R. Fred Zuker, admissions officer at Duke University. The book, published jointly with Simon and Schuster, is entitled "Peterson's Guide to College Admissions: How to Put the Odds on Your Side."

This inside look at the admissions process was written to give high school juniors and seniors a better chance of choosing the right college and being accepted by taking them step-by-step through the application process and explaining how admissions decisions are made. Sprinkled with anecdotes and advice from admissions officers across the country, the book also contains college comparison charts, sample applications, worksheets, SAT and ACT samples, profiles of all four-year colleges and extensive financial aid information.

News Of The CHURCHES

EVANGELIST TO PREACH

At University Chapel. The Rev. Canon Bryan Green of Oxan, England, will speak at the 11 a.m. Sunday morning service and again at a Sunday evening service at 8 on October 3, both of them in the University Chapel.

Canon Green had a long and effective ministry in Birmingham, England, which he combined with a far reaching evangelism, to university campuses in this country, Canada, and Great Britain.

According to Dean Ernest Gordon of the Chapel, Canon Green has been an effective witness to the Gospel of Jesus Christ in both its breadth and its depth. His witness is more timely than ever, for he is a master at interpreting the old and the eternal truths which the Christian tradition upholds in every generation.

His last visit to the Princeton University campus was in 1957 at which time McCash 50 was filled to capacity every night of the week, and a significant number of students and faculty dedicated or rededicated themselves to Christ and his service. He will be available for counseling on Monday, October 4, in Murray-Dodge Hall. This is one in a series of special events sponsored by the University Chapel.

SCHOOL STARTS SUNDAY

At Quaker Meeting. The First Day School of Princeton Monthly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends will start the 1976-77 school year Sunday at 11. The First Day School is open to all children from pre-school to high school.

In the lower school, headed by Laura Klinger, child care during meeting is available for those under three. There are courses in learning to play, share and worship together for pre-schoolers and another centered on the world about us for the first two grades as well as assemblies led by Ms. Klinger.

Third graders have a course in Old Testament and Early Quakerism; fourth and fifth graders learn about the life and teachings of Jesus and early Christianity; and the sixth grade has a class in Quaker history. Seventh graders learn about other religions, while ninth and tenth graders have Young Friends Activities, coordinated by Ferguson Reeves.

There will be a picnic on October 3 at 12:15 when parents and teachers may become acquainted, everyone bringing his or her own lunch. It is expected that more picnics will be scheduled during the year as well as plays, assemblies and singing.

According to Arnold B. Smolens, chairman of the religious education committee, the continuation of Princeton Monthly Meeting depends over the long term in part on the sustained interest of new generations. Therefore, he says, it is important that all eligible and interested young people attend First Day School.

PLAYERS HERE

For Performances at Seminary. A religious dramatic group, The Covenant Players, will bring their traveling ministry to the Princeton Theological Seminary campus on Friday, in a series of three major presentations at 10 a.m. and 7:45 p.m Services of Worship and at a 3:30 p.m. informal workshop, all in Miller Chapel. All these occasions will be open to the public.

The Players embody a dream of the early sixties of a truly functional, communicative arm of the church drama which would challenge participants and audiences alike to action. The more than 400 plays in their repertoire range from a one-minute piece for the call to worship to a one-act play for the sermon.

Their wide spectrum of subject matter reflects the need to speak to all denominations and the various groups within them. They have appeared before, and involved, such diverse groups as sunday schools and businessmen's conventions, retreats and block-saturation programs. The Seminary extends a special invitation to the afternoon workshop to all those involved in youth programs.

Services Scheduled to Mark High Holydays

The Jewish New Year will be ushered in at the Princeton Jewish Center, 435 Nassau Street, on Friday with services beginning at 7 p.m. Others will be held Saturday and Sunday at 8:30 a.m. and 7 p.m.

In accordance with tradition, the Princeton Jewish community, with Jews throughout the world, will welcome the New Year with the sounding of the Shofar. The one exception to this tradition occurs when Rosh Hashanah falls on the Sabbath, as it does this year. Consequently the Shofar blast will only be heard on the second day of Rosh Hashanah, which is Sunday. Allen Aronovic will blow the Shofar at the main service, while David Hollander will officiate at the concurrent children's service.

The two days of Rosh Hashanah start the ten days of penitence which culminate in Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, on Monday, October 4. On this day all Jews pray for forgiveness of sins committed during the previous year, and as a symbol of this repentance a total fast is maintained from sunset on Sunday, October 3, to sunset on Monday.

There will be services Sunday, October 3, at 6:15 p.m. and Monday, October 4, at 8:30 a.m. Special children's services will be held at 10 a.m. this Saturday and Sunday as well as on October 4. Baby sitting will also be provided. Rabbi Melvin Jay Glatt and Jay Rovner will conduct all the services during this High Holyday period.

For more information regarding tickets, call the Jewish Center, 924-5493.

We have been soliciting dwelling listings over the last few weeks. Our supply of homes had reached a dangerous low. We need more, so if you have a house to sell, please tell us. An odd result of the campaign, has been that we have been presented with several excellent land listings. They are very good opportunities. The situation reminds one of the "acres of diamonds" theme. Opportunity is at your feet!! Read this and think!

HOPEWELL TOWNSHIP - 32 acres, wooded and rocky, no frontage. Asking $2,000/acre.
HAMILTON TOWNSHIP - Industrial - loads of frontage on Route 130. Make us an offer!!

LOWER MAKEFIELD TOWNSHIP - Residential, prime area, 26 acres - Owner may consider sub-division.

Joe Shinn, About to Retire, Will Trade Many Hats He's Worn For Princeton Township for One He Can Wear Sailing a Boat

THE TOWNSHIP AND JOE SHINN: Close partners for over 20 years. W. Joseph Shinn, as the formal documents call him, will retire September 30 as zoning officer and building inspector of Princeton Township. The genial guy with the elfin grin is certainly familiar with that map on the wall behind him. But what he'd prefer, is a chart of Barnegat Bay and a boat to sail.

The first year Joe Shinn was building inspector for the Township, he issued building permits for 330 new houses.

That was the boom, pre-sewer moratorium year of 1954. Last year, the figure was 12.

Next year.....well, Joe Shinn will be sailing happily in the autumn sunshine, maybe on Barnegat Bay, maybe on the Chesapeake, maybe off the Maine coast. He's retiring, after the work day of Thursday, September 30, and after that, as always, the place you'll find him will be on a boat.

"I began building boats as a kid. Built a 16-foot rowboat with a friend, maybe we were 14, had it down on the lake. Yeah, sure it floated fine!"

"I used to sit up all night long, working on the outline of a sloop. Wanted to get into boat design, but there was just too much pressure--and not any jobs, either, in those days!"

Pressure and Joe Shinn just aren't words that go together. Quiet, deliberate, soft-spoken to the point of inaudibility, Joe Shinn has always been one of those low-key people who get things done. The 330 building permits, for example, and everything that piled onto the growing, mushrooming Township in the years after that.

"When I began, I was in charge of the road crew, I was plumbing inspector, secretary to the Planning Board and zoning officer. We'd have those Planning Board meetings until 1 a.m., and then I'd get in here at 8 a.m. the next morning...." and he shudders.

Here in 1918. Wilbert Joseph Shinn is what they call a long-time Princeton resident. He recalls that he first saw the town on the first Armistice Day, November 11, 1918. He'd been in a grade-school parade down in Masonville, and his dad brought him up to Princeton to show him their new home.

He went to high school when it was in the old Nassau Street school, the grey stone building across from Bellows, now owned by the University.

"Miles G. Thompson was principal," Mr. Shinn says, and he adds with a sly smile, "He was a Yalie."

Spoken like a true Princeton man. Joe Shinn was graduated from Princeton University with a degree in geology in 1933. Before that, as a high school student, he'd worked in the Princeton University engineering lab of Professor George Beggs and he still remembers vividly the scale model Professor Beggs had of Boulder Dam, and how, using this model, Professor Beggs was able to make predictions which, Joe Shinn says, "came out better than the computations of the engineers that designed the dam."

After graduation exercises of the Class of '33, young Mr. Shinn went to work for the Sincerbeaux engineering firm in Princeton as a surveyor, then to the U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey, then to the College Entrance Examination Board.

"If you could find a job anywhere, that was your field!" he grins.

Summer Jobs. Growing up in Princeton and attending school here, Joe was tapped in the summers to work in his father's contracting business. Worrel, Shinn and Co. it was, in the beginning. Offices were in the building where P.J.'s Pancake House now is. Mr. Shinn still owns that building, and now the one next to it, as well.

"They tell me P.J.'s might be older, even, than Bainbridge House next door," he says. "Certainly built in the 1700s."

"I remember our office was in back, and there were various stores in front--a tailor, a haberdashery, florist shop. The University Laundry's pick-up was there, too. My uncle Elmer and Ed Branch and B. Franklin Bunn were partners in that laundry for a while."

"That's how I could be plumbing inspector, after I went with the Township. I'd worked for my father, and one summer I'd be a steam-fitter and the next summer I'd be a roofer, and the next, a plumber...."

Late in the 1930s, Joe Shinn went up to Andover and taught in Proctor Academy there.

"I taught math, history, economics, geography. I was clean-up man: I taught what the rest didn't want to teach! And I ran the boat-building shop, and I'd design, oh, sailboats, rowboats, outboards and inboards, everything from a seven-foot dinghy to a 24-foot catamaran sloop. And I'd have the kids build them. And, if somebody wanted a boat, occasionally I'd design one."

Sailing as a Sport. With quiet, happy pride, he tells how during his time at the school, Proctor became one of the first prep schools to have sailing as a sport. As sailing coach, he set up a spring series at M.I.T. using M.I.T. boats, and later, another at Brown University.

"Out of 33 prep schools, we

"STREETCAR"

Opens October 7. Shirley Knight, Tony-award winner, will play the fragile Blanche du Bois in Michael Kahn's production of "A Streetcar Named Desire," which will launch McCarter's season.

Preview performances have been scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday, October 5 and 6, with opening night festivities on Thursday, October 7.

For Williams' incisive portrait of a "Southern belle" grown world-weary with the pressures of life in a violent society, director Michael Kahn has cast Tony Award winning actress Shirley Knight as the fragile Blanche du Bois. The pivotal role of Blanche's sister Stella will be played by Glenn Close, most recently featured in "Rex," while the part of her "gentleman caller" Miteh is in the hands of George Dzundza, played earlier this season in "Legend" opposite Elizabeth Ashley. Others in the cast include Sarallen, Powers Booth, Mitchell Edmunds, Mary Hayden, Tom McDermott, Eric Roberts and Fiddle Viracola.

"NASHVILLE"

Starts Film Series. One of the most talked-about films of last year, "Nashville," will open the Movies-at-McCarter series with screenings Tuesday and Wednesday, October 12 and 13 at 8 p.m.

"Nashville," directed by Robert Altman, has been described as "a satire, a melodrama, a country-and-western musical, a documentary essay on Nashville and an epic vision of America in the mid-1970s."

Other films in the series will be the first local showing of Lina Wertmuller's "Swept Away (by an Unusual Destiny in the Blue Sea of August)" and her "Seven Beauties." "A Brief Vacation," the last film of the late Vittorio De Sica, is also on the program.

Others are "Kaspar Hauser," "The Lost Honor of Katharina Blum," and "Fox and His Friends," from West Germany; "Face to Face," with Liv Ullman, from Ingmar Bergman and, from England, "The Romantic Englishwoman."

"Rancho DeLuxe," a parody western, "Hearts of the West," set in the Hollywood of the '30s, "Farewell, My Lovely", "The Godfather, Part II;", "Hester Street," "The Day of the Locust" and "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" the Disney

McCARTER ANNOUNCES '76 SEASON '77

1 A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE

By Tennessee Williams

This unquestioned masterpiece by America's greatest living playwright will mark the McCarter debut of one of America's most brilliant actresses, this year's Tony Award-winner SHIRLEY KNIGHT in the role of Blanche Du Bois. Williams' finest female characterization. Directed by MICHAEL KAHN whose revival of Cat on a Hot Tin Roof was a hit of the 1974 Broadway season, this will be a major theatrical event.

2 MAJOR BARBARA

By George Bernard Shaw

In this, his most striking social comedy, Shaw's bold notion that "our first duty is not to be poor," is as relevant today as it was at the turn-of-the-century. Blessed are the poor? Not in this classic where "the greatest of evils and the worst of crimes is poverty." MARIA TUCCI will be featured in the title role under the direction of KENNETH FRANKEL who staged McCarter's highly acclaimed Awake & Sing last season.

American Premiere
3 THE NIGHT OF THE TRIBADES

By Per Olov Enquist translated by Ross Shideler

McCarter Theatre Company is proud to present this startling new work, which has already been translated into twelve languages and is considered one of the finest plays written in Scandinavia in the last fifty years. Enquist depicts the frustrated, impassioned and vital world of August Strindberg, his estranged wife Siri and her very intimate friend Marie Caroline David. The three wage a battle of the sexes, fighting not only each other but the social causes of their own personal miseries which Enquist imaginatively reconstructs with the same kind of dramatic intensity Strindberg brought to bear on his great masterpieces Dance of Death and Miss Julie.

4 THE PHYSICISTS

By Friedrich Durrenmatt

Fun and chills in a very insane asylum—where three physicists harbor their homicidal delusions—form the macabre, comic background for this bizarre whodunit by the author of The Visit. The eccentric keeper of Durrenmatt's exclusive madhouse will return Academy Award-winner EILEEN HECKART to the McCarter stage for her first appearance since Mother Courage.

World Premiere
5 ANGEL CITY

By Sam Shepard

It's "A Moving Picture Show" written especially for the McCarter Theatre Company by the author of The Tooth of Crime and Operation Sidewinder. This new play with music is a bold, brash and excitingly different look at the American Dream, Hollywood success story. This important premiere production will be directed by MICHAEL KAHN

6 DESIGN FOR LIVING

By Noel Coward

The master of modern comedy, lovingly discards the nuclear family in favor of a convention-flaunting menage-a-trois. The incomparable trio are bound together in a comically shifting geometric relationship—audacious, wildly defiant and bristling with wit. It is Coward at his barbing, brilliant best.

Moviegoers Protest Grows But So Do Obstacles Confronting It

The Moviegoers Protest announced plans last week to incorporate as the Princeton Community Film Center and to name an executive committee empowered to raise money and consider real estate possibilities.

Mrs. Betty Fussell of 71 Lilac Lane, who has spearheaded the year-long protest against high prices and long runs at the two theatres here, addressed a capacity crowd of movie buffs at a meeting at 185 Nassau Street. Noting again that there is no central meeting place for various groups in town, she emphasized the "community" as well as the "film" aspect of the title.

Equipped with charts Mrs. Fussell described "unassailable system" by which the Sameric Corporation operates as a regional chain of 85 theatres governed by the current economics of the eight major Hollywood studios which have become distributors as well as producers. Sameric holds a ten-year lease from Palmer Square, Inc., which in turn is owned principally by Princeton University.

William Lockwood, who runs the film series as program director at McCarter Theatre and is also director of programming at Lincoln Center in New York City, echoed the shifting pattern of movie-going in the suburbs into regionalized theatres in malls and shopping centers. These theatres become part of large chains and are not operated to pay attention to an individual theatre in a particular community. The chain is bound in a "quid pro quo" relationship with one or two major studios and involved in intense bidding which include guarantees and exclusivity for the fewer films being made.

Each chain is looking for the blockbuster like "Jaws," which reportedly cost $8 million to make and will earn $20 million with "multi-theatre release potential." It is a business, Mr. Lockwood said, that is geared to the lowest common denominator, safe in the knowledge that people will drive 25 miles to see this year's "Godfather." Because the terms of the bid contract decrease as time goes on in a long run, the theatre doesn't need a full house to make money.

Robert Piechota, owner of the theatre in the Montgomery Shopping Center and another in Hillsboro, spoke on what it is like trying to run an independent theatre. "We don't have any power," he said, "to bid the film away from them. We have to play films they don't want, or sub-runs after they have played in other houses, or revivals."

To Mrs. Fussell the key issue is the lack of a central facility for the community. She ran down the list of possibilities: the Library and the auditoriums in the schools which are already overbooked; Borough Hall's old Miss Fine's School gym which stands as a shell lacking heat and plumbing; McCarter Theatre, which she considers "a white elephant" in terms of the cost of renovation such as air conditioning and has serious problems of scheduling in that the heart of the season has already been pre-empted by repertory; and the University, where there is "no serious probability" of a new building and where the community is limited because of the University's tax exempt status.

Quoting from the revised text replacing chapter 4 of the Master Plan adopted in July, 1974, Mrs. Fussell noted that "special public amenities should be provided to enhance the community center concept; exhibit space, bulletin board, indoor community center, restaurants, movie houses, public facilities, etc." With a wry laugh she commented that none of these exists, except for the restaurants and the two now commercial, as opposed to community, theatres.

Furthermore, she adds, if the master plan calls for public use of a site such as the Garden Theater, use of the building could be changed to non-conforming would be to change the ownership of the land and its use. Having leased the theatre for ten years with an option to renew for another ten, the University has made it very difficult, in her view, because of the expense of buying out of that lease by a new developer.

Once incorporated, the group plans to keep up the pressure in several ways. One is to pursue consumer action under a new law which enables the consumer to seek redress against corporate price fixing. Sameric's exclusive arrangement with United Artists studios as well as the Budco chain's with Allied Artists and Columbia Pictures may constitute such a monopoly of trade, she feels.

Another avenue is to seek a forum with the University planner on the future of the center of town which is largely owned by the University. It is Mrs. Fussell's feeling that the University is currently more involved in developing its Forrestal property along Route 1 and has in effect "turned its back" on its Palmer Square properties.

Thirdly the group will continue to explore real estate possibilities. However, as Mrs. Fussell points out, no organization has the funds to contribute to such an undertaking as the building or renovation of a community arts center so that "one has to create private funds, and then you are getting away from the community center concept."

classic, will be the American representation.

"Waiting for Fidel" and "Loose Ends" will round out the series.

REVIVALS END

With Antonioni, Allen. Film Revival Weekends at McCarter will end this Friday and Saturday with showings of Michaelangelo Antonioni's "The Passenger" and Woody Allen's "Love and Death."

Starring Jack Nicholson and Maria Schneider, "The Passenger" is about a reporter who assumes a dead man's wardrobe and life, and sets out to live a borrowed life as casually as he would wear a borrowed tie. It will be shown twice – at 7 and 9 this Friday.

On Saturday, McCarter will present "Love and Death" in three showings – 7 p.m., 8:30 p.m., and 10 p.m. This is the one with Allen as a reluctant draftee into the Russian army in the time of Napoleon. He is caught in a plot to assassinate the emperor and is sentenced to be shot.

"Every man has to go sometime. I have to go at 6 a.m.," he says, "It was originally 5 a.m. but I have a good lawyer."

"DAMES....!"

Casting Completed. Everybody is in rehearsal for "Dames at Sea," the musical that will open the 44th season for Princeton Community Players. Opening night is Friday, October 29. The theatre will be the Players' theatre on Broadmead.

Daryl Gross and Norman Hollander, the directors, announce a cast consisting of Melinda Boroson, Janet Cantore and Linda Raglan as the dames, and Donald Frame, Jack Friedel and George Warren as the three men.

PINTER FOR OPENERS

Then Shakespeare. Three characters in search of Harold Pinter found him in time for "Old Times," his three-character play that will open the curtain this season on October 14 for Theatre Intime's 58th season.

Theatre Intime's University student cast, directors and crew will once again operate from Murray Theatre, on the campus between the chapel and the art museum.

Then, "The Tempest," with the return of Daniel Seltzer to the Intime stage in the role of Prospero. Mr. Seltzer, a professor of English at Princeton, received a Tony Award nomination for his performance in last season's Broadway hit, "Knock, Knock." He has also appeared frequently in Princeton on both the Murray Theatre and McCarter stages. "The Tempest" will run for three weekends, starting November 4.

The third production of the season will be Moliere's "Don Juan," in which the legendary hero is portrayed with wit, sparkle and hoosesty. Christopher Hampton, the English playwright, did the translation. The production will open December 2.

The month of February will see the three Noel Coward one-actors grouped together under the title "Tonight at 8:30." The next production will be a pair of one-act plays, the contemporary American play "Birdbath," by Leonard Malfi and the Pirandello "The Vice." Opening night is March 3.

For the final offering of the season, Intime will present Jean Anouilh's "Ring Around the Moon" in the Christopher Fry translation. It will be the April offering, opening April 7.

MODERN GREATS

In Film Series. A series of contemporary films to be shown by Theatre Intime will begin this week-end with Mel Brook's comic "Young Frankenstein," a parody of the famous horror tale. It will be shown at 8 p.m., 10 p.m. and midnight this Friday and Saturday in Murray Theatre (air-conditioned) on the University campus between the chapel and the art museum.

Brooks has Gene Wilder as the professor lured into creating a zipper-necked monster. Marty Feldman is the hunchback whose hunch keeps changing places. Cloris Leachman, Peter Boyle, Gene Hackman and Teri Garr are the rest.

Other films will be "Harry

...IN NEW BRUNSWICK

New Season Ready. Red plush seats and a cafe in the lobby are innovations at the George Street Playhouse, New Brunswick, where the season's starter, "That Championship Season" will open October 8.

The seats came from a movie-house on Lower Albany Street which has been tapped for demolition. The cafe came from inspiration.

After "That Championship Season," the Playhouse will stage the premiere of "Brothers," by the Playhouse's producing director, Eric Krebs. It will be presented November 12 through December 4.

Next will be "Noel and Cole," a musical revue of Coward and Porter (December 10 through January 8) to be followed by an environmental production, with music, of "A Midsummer Nights' Dream." The Shakespeare will run from January 21 through February 12.

Agatha Christie's long-running murder mystery, "The Mousetrap" will play from February 25 through March 19, and in the April 1-April 16 slot, there is an opening for a new play to be announced. The season is scheduled to end with Beckett's "Waiting for Godot," to be given April 22 to May 14.

Reservations and inquiries about subscriptions may be made by calling 201-246-3530, or writing to the Playhouse at 414 George Street, New Brunswick.

RECITAL TUESDAY

By Lois Laverty. Lois Laverty, soprano, of the Westminster Choir College voice faculty, will give a recital accompanied by David Agler at the piano, September 28 at 8 p.m. in the College's Playhouse. The program will feature Schumann's "Liederkreis" and Schoenberg's "Das Buch der Haengenden Gaerten," two masterpieces of German song cycle literature. The recital is free to the public.

Miss Laverty spent six years in Austria and Germany, first as a Fullbright scholar at the Vienna Academy of Music, earning a diploma in Lieder and Oratorio, and then as a professional singer in recital, concert and opera. During a recent sabbatical, she studied French and Art Song Literature in Paris.

Miss Laverty is a graduate of Westminster Choir College, was a soloist with the Westminster Choir under John Finley Williamson and has been on the faculty of the Choir College for 12 years.

Pianist David Agler, also a Westminster graduate, is the choir director of All Saints Church in Princeton and is co-musical director of Gian Carlo Menotti's "Festival of Two Worlds" in Spoleto, Italy, where the Westminster Choir has been in residence for five years.

BATTLES ARE FOCUS

of NJPTV Special. The saga of the grueling American Revolution battles which reddened a once-green New Jersey landscape and left farms in shambles, homes ruined, strong men dead and families divided will be told in an hour-long color film, "Crossroads to Victory," premiering Sunday at 7 p.m. and Wesnesday, September 29, at 9 p.m. on New Jersey Public Television.

Two years in preparation, writing and filming precede the first showing of an epic by filmmaker Louis Presti on channels 23, 50, 52, and 58. NJPTV's most ambitious single undertaking to date went on location throughout the state and into Pennsylvania and New York to capture the feel of the times. Dozens of retakes were often required to recreate the mood, the weather, the strategy of crucial episodes of the war.

"The people of the day, both black and white, were as important as Ft. Lee, where rebels were killed without shoes or stockings, or as the ten eventful days in Trenton and Princeton, or as the Battle of Monmouth," says Executive Producer-Director Presti. "We hope we have told their stories, too, in human terms.

"What is particularly poignant is that the Revolution was for the most part a civil war in New Jersey, where people contested bitterly the definitions of Patriotism and Loyalism," he adds. The English, Dutch, Scotch, Irish, German, Swedish and Finnish settlers and their descendents prayed together, but they were greatly divided.

The production, written by New York and Princeton screen writer Sidney Brooks and narrated by radio personality Martin Gabel, features area residents and resources. Actress Anne Sheldon plays the part of an old woman in a scene in her own historic house in Skillman. The Hunt House in Hopewell is used for a scene in which Generals Washington, Lee and Wayne debate attack.

Others who are seen or heard are Eileen Carothers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Carothers of 125 Library Place who plays a leading role as Sara, and Robert Paulus of 53 Caldwell Drive who plays a farmer.

Karl Light of Cherry Valley Road is heard as the voice of General Washington and Sidney Brooks as the voice of General Cornwallis. Denis Bellocq of Pennington is the voice of John Hart; Annette Carter of Titusville plays the wife of Joshua Grey; and Alice Cottrell of 44 Pine Street is an extra.

Original Sketches from Princeton University archives showing the death of General Mercer and the first printing of the Declaration of Independence from the Scheide Library are among resources used for authenticity. Music was written, arranged and conducted by Princeton composer Frank Lewin and performed by the Cranbury Consort, augmented by other musicians. One of the camera men for the production was Paul Trejo, 13 Olden Street, who with Robert Clowes of Hopewell was the location sound recordist.

The Sidney Brooks script movingly describes New Jersey's transition from a "beautiful and peaceful land, among the richest and most productive of all the colonies" to "the one colony of all the colonies where every woman, man and child was in some way touched by the Revolutionary War." Mr. Brooks has written numerous television programs and motion picutres, among them "Light" and "Air of Good Living," each of which won Academy Award nominations.

"Crossroads to Victory" attempts nothing less then to show all Americans the major contributions of the state in the overall Revolutionary War effort; to encourage reflection on those events, people and situations that contributed to the principles so integral in our modern state and nation; and to make better known the many significant historic sites of New Jersey.

Mrs. Charlotte Parsell was honored recently at a reception following the opening meeting of the Montgomery Woman's Club. Her name was placed on the State Honor Roll at Convention last spring, and a dictionary and stand was presented by Mrs. Richard Jamieson, the immediate past president, to Headquarters in September. Guests at the reception included 26 women from other clubs, many of whom were presidents of their clubs or officers in Federation and had worked with Mrs. Parsell.

Mrs. Parsell was a former member of the Hillsborough and Hopewell Woman's Clubs and was a charter member of the Montgomery Woman's Club and its first president. Mrs. Joseph Rajter, Mrs. Edwin Goldberg and Mrs. Robert Schwenker spoke in tribute to her contributions to the Montgomery club.

In turn, Mrs. Parsell presented the Club with a surprise pair of silver candlesticks in honor of the tenth anniversary this spring. Mrs. Carlton Clough, president, received the gift for the club.

beat 'em all!" he says, "and there are some tough sailors up in that Rhode Island area...."

This is the 24th year that Joe Shinn has gone down to Barnegat in the spring and started the scraping and painting on his 35-year-old houseboat, the "Periwinkle."

"It's one of the old kind duck hunters use, a barge 36 feet long with a nine-foot beam, with living quarters, no power. I've got it furnished with antique furniture, canvas awnings, flowerpots outside. There's a bunkroom, a sitting-dining room–what they call a 'salon' on a boat--a little galley. It takes me two months in the spring. I scrape and caulk and paint–acres and acres, I paint!

Alongside is "Sjogin," a double-ender sloop (pointed at both ends) made by the Swedish carpenter who used to build for Allan Villiers, the tall-ships sailor. Power here, of course, is sail, and that brings the story to Lorna, Mr. Shinn's wife.

"She's the one you ought to write about!" he smiles, "She's the only female sail-maker on the east coast. She's in such demand she can't even go out on the bay without another sailboat coming along and shouting over to her about some torn sail."

The Shinns were married in 1973. Over the past few months, they've been, not so much house-hunting, as "a good place to sail"-hunting. The Shinn house on Princeton Avenue has been sold, and that retirement house had better turn up soon, although it's hard to imagine Joe Shinn worried about that, or anything.

Retirement may--or may not--keep the Shinns close to Pete, in Trenton, and Melissa, in Alaska, children of Mr. Shinn's late first wife, Alice.

But wherever the house is, one thing is sure:

"There's got to be room for a boat by the door."

PROGRAM IS OFFERED

To Help Smokers Quit. Smokers wanting to quit the habit have been able to do it in five days with the help of a special program being offered at the Medical Center at Princeton.

Brochures and flyers sent this week to doctors and personnel directors in the hospital service area describe the 5-Day Plan to Stop Smoking being held September 26 through September 30 at the Medical Center's Princeton House Unit, 905 Herrontown Road. It is a program of behavior modification presented by trained professors which teaches the smoker how to stop smoking – and its successful. Between 80 percent and 100 percent of those who attend all of the sessions quit smoking within 5 days.

Additionally, an individual program is developed to help each person relax and avoid stress that leads to a desire to smoke. Advice is offered on exercise and eating habits as well.

Registration forms and brochures are available at the Medical Center and additional information can be obtained by calling 921-7700, extension 248.

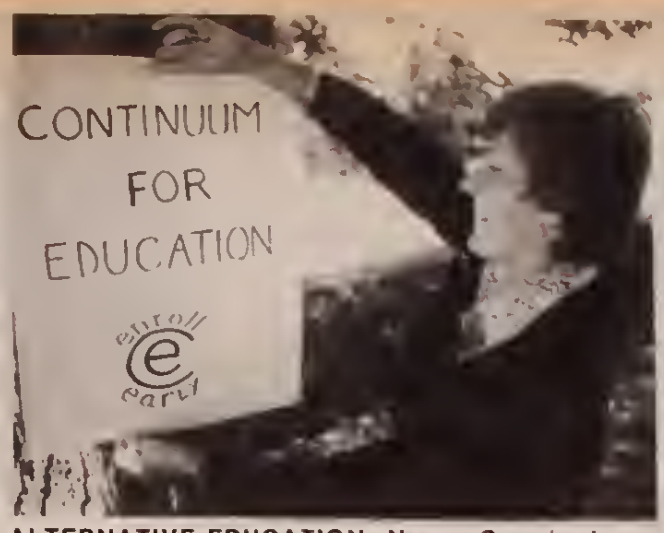
RUMMAGE SALE OCT. 5 & 6

To Benefit Medical Center. More than 350 area women have volunteered to assist at the Princeton Medical Center's Princeton's Annual Rummage Sale which will be held at the Italian American Sportsmen's Club, Terhune Road, Princeton, on October 5 and 6.

Barbara Johnson and Sue Goebel are co-chairmen of the annual event. "We have received a large quantity of books, washers, dryers, quality furniture, clothing, and small appliances," the co-chairman reported. Also, Princeton area merchants have donated many interesting and unusual items ranging from crystal ware to a unique umbrella stand.

Posters distributed throughout the Princeton area were created by Lisa Farrell, a high school student from West Windsor.

Arrangements for pick-up can be made by calling Mrs. Johnson, 924-2598 or Mrs. Goebel, 924-7627. Also, the garage at the Stanworth Apartments (27 & 29) will be open for receiving on Saturday mornings from 10 to 11 until Saturday, October 2.



ALTERNATIVE EDUCATION: Nancy Cunningham, director of The Continuum for Education, holds a poster advising early registration for a wide offering of adult education classes held in area homes. Registration will be September 29 from 7-9 p.m. at 5 Ivy Lane.

FALL TERM SCHEDULED

By Continuum. The Continuum for Education is offering courses this fall designed as an alternative to institutionalized learning. Continuum classes meet in Princeton area homes at times determined by the course participants and are small enough to provide ample opportunity for individual instruction in a relaxed environment. Some courses run a full semester and can be credited toward a college degree; others are mini-courses or seminars, ranging from a few weeks to a couple of months. The Continuum will also assist those who wish to apply for college credits for life experience.

The organizers include Mary Bunting, president emeritus of Radcliffe College, Robert Steiner, director of the New Jersey Educational Consortium, Carolyn Wilson of the Professional Roster, and a core of prospective faculty from a wide range of disciplines.

Courses in communications skills, fundamentals of investing, life drawing, understanding modern marriage and the family are offered, as well as classes in geology, sociology, anthropology, literature and history. The Continuum will also attempt to provide courses on request.

To enroll, call (201) 329-6874. Inquiries may also be addressed to The Continuum for Education, RD 2, Box 226, Cranbury. In-person registration will be held Wednesday, September 29, between 7 and 9 p.m.

Tigers Will Need Teeth for Rutgers Saturday After Misplacing Them in Edging Cornell

ONE OF 34 for 161 YARDS: Bobby Isom (24) hurtles into Cornell line for more yardage. Ball control he and Mike Carter provided were vital to Tigers' slim 3-0 triumph as they ran 26 plays in decisive fourth quarter to losers' 12.

SPORTS FANS! I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you
By John Bernard

Here's an oddity ... The team with the best over-all won-lost record in the National Football League in the last 10 years is the Oakland Raiders – yet despite having the best won-lost record, the Raiders, oddly enough, have never won the Super Bowl in any year.

Here's a tough sports question for you ... Who's the only man who ever won a gold medal at the Olympics – and then played major league baseball? ... The only person ever to do it was Jim Thorpe who won a gold medal at the 1912 Olympics, then played big league baseball between 1913 and 1919.

To realize how great a runner Jim Brown was, look at this fact ... Nobody in the history of the National Football League -- past or present -- is even remotely close to Brown's record of total yards gained rushing ... Brown rushed for 12,312 yards ... Ranking 2nd on the all-time rushing list is Jim Taylor with 8,597 yards; 3rd is Joe Perry with 8,378 and 4th is O.J. Simpson with 8,123.

I bet you didn't know ... that your parents could bankrupt you if they went to a nursing home. Check with us about nursing home insurance – up to $7000 a year. Past medical history not important. Low rates.

SPORTS In Princeton

A Rutgers football team that has won nine straight over two seasons, believes it can win them all this year and is a sure-fire bowl-game bet if it does will come into Palmer Stadium Saturday with revenge uppermost in its mind.

The 1975 Tigers put an early crimp in the Scarlet's bright hopes for last season when they achieved a 10-7 upset, and on the banks of the Raritan, they remember vividly what happened in the Princeton game from one year to the next. Kickoff time is 1:30, with fair skies likely to draw as many as 25,000 – better than half of them rooting for the visitors.

Making up its schedules almost a decade in advance, Rutgers cannot easily foretell the strength of many of its opponents. As matters have turned out, however, the Scarlet has booked the three weakest teams in the Ivy League (Columbia, Cornell, Princeton), two run-of-the-mill members of the Yankee Conference (Connecticut and UMass) and nothing close to an opponent with national ranking among such others as Navy, Louisville, Tulane, Lehigh and Colgate.

Able to field a big, veteran squad that reputedly could have three or four NFL draft selections in its senior class, the Scarlet may well go 11-and-0 in 1976. Off the personnel it can produce Saturday against a Princeton team that appears solidly overmatched, Rutgers may finally enjoy the field day it had been expecting in 1974, when only missing goal posts allowed the visitors to escape with a 6-6 tie, and last year, when it was a surprise 10-7 victim.

Quarterback Not Top Drawer. One of the few positions not as well staffed as Rutgers coach Frank Burns would like it is quarterback, but with all the other assets available to him, it may not matter much Saturday. He will start senior Bert Kosup, who appeared to have lost the starting job this year to sophomore Jeff Rebholz until the latter was a mugging victim in Asbury Park earlier this month. Facial injuries suffered at the time have benched him for Rutgers' games against Navy and Bucknell, in both of which Kosup did the job well enough to win by margins of 10 and 12 points.

Halfback Mike Fisher is the top ball carrier, with Mark Lassiter and Jeff Greczyn of Hightstown among others who will get the call. The quartet of receivers Burns alternates consists of Jon Walling, the biggest at 6-5, 228, and Mark Debes at tight end, and Mark Twitty and Dusty Bryan at split end. Linemen, most with a year or more of experience, range from 210 to 288 pounds.

Best of a superior defensive platoon is senior Nate Toran, a 6-3, 238-lb. end who is a candidate for All-American honors this year and a probable high draft pick by the pros. He can be figured to make life unpleasant for the Tigers' John Flannery, who was sacked several times at Ithaca Saturday. John Alexander, a 6-3, 240-lb. tackle, is another player who figures to overmatch his counterpart on the Tigers' sophomore-dominated offensive line.

Rutgers' fine season last year found it placing in the top 10 nationally in four defensive categories, paced by a stingy

OFFENSE: Capable backfield operates behind big, veteran line. Will test Tiger defense to full extent of its ability.

DEFENSE: Likely to overmatch Princeton in much of the action, particularly on pass rush against young line and new quarterback

CHIEF ASSET: Size, balance and experience are all on Rutgers' side.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Lack of top-flight quarterback and running back tempers Rutgers' overall strength, but unbeaten season is possible

8.3 points a game, fourth best in the country. Off the problems Princeton showed at Ithaca in inability to knock the other guys down and in the amount Flannery has to learn as a quarterback, it will be a truly astonishing result if the Tigers post enough points to win this one.

DEFENSE DOES IT

For Tigers at Ithaca. If Princeton had game-long troubles trying to make more than three points, Cornell had nothing going for it offensively at all at Ithaca Saturday. After missing a 50-yard field goal attempt and later reaching the Tigers' 22 in the opening period in the second half, the losers never got beyond their own 35. With the outcome hanging in the balance, it was greatly to the credit of the Princeton defense that it held Cornell to 45 yards on the ground and did not allow one completion of the five passes tried.

The Tigers were somewhat better, but not much. They outgained the Red, 293 yards to 137, and Flannery completed 5 of a dozen passes but suffered two interceptions, one in the end zone. Of Princeton's 238 yards rushing, 161 -- better than 60 percent -- were credited to junior Bobby Isom, whose 34 carries fell only three short of the mark set a quarter-century ago by Dick Kazmaier.

Although it was only the first game of the season, with a brand new quarterback operating behind an almost wholly inexperienced interior line, Princeton's inability to score from point-blank range may bode ill in a season when points are desperately needed. In the final quarter, the Tigers put the ball in motion 11 times within the 10-yard line and had to settle for just three points.

A Mike Stein punt that spun off the ground onto the Cornell receiver's chest and was then recovered on the Cornell 11 by defensive end Mike Sherwood set up the field goal by Chris Howe. The soccer-style placekicker boomed his first varsity three-pointer far beyond the 23 yards necessary to clear the bar.

In the remaining minutes, flanker back Mike Carter ripped off a 32-yard gain on a reverse to the home team 10 and Isom later swept around left end for 45 yards to the 1, but the Tigers never made it across the goal line. Play selection was hardly diversified, most shots sending the ball carrier into the middle and at least two of them failing because of missed blocking assignments or a collision between the man with the ball and another back.

Cornell attempts at retaliation after it trailed 3-0 were indicative of the bleak season the Red appears to face. Putting the ball in motion 10 times, exclusive of kicks, the home team gained a total of nine yards on the ground, threw three incomplete passes and lost possession for good when the fourth one was picked off by Kevin Hagerty.

If Flannery had a rough baptism of fire at quarterback, as might be expected, Bobby Isom's star shone bright in his first starting assignment at running back. His 161 yards gained were not only the best single game performance since Walt Snickenberger graduated but the total was almost half of the 340 yards that fullback Bob Reid, the Tigers' leading ball carrier in 1975, gained all last season.

Defensively, the standout was linebacker Steve Lang, who was credited with a dozen unassisted tackles and five others on which he had a hand. Others who performed well were linebacker Paul McKeon, with eight tackles, five assists and an interception, and safety Pete BarUett -- five tackles, four assists and frequent good play diagnosis.

HUN OPENER FRIDAY

Here Against Newark Academy. "Hopefully we're ready," said Hun football coach Dave Leete a few days before his team will open its eight-game season here Friday afternoon at 3:30 against Newark Academy.

"We have a good chance, I think, if we don't make any mistakes," commented Leete about the opener. He reported that on Saturday Hun scouted Newark Academy, which lost a scrimmage to Orange High School in the final 20 seconds. Last year against NA, which runs from the I formation, Hun won, 12-6, in Elizabeth en route to a 6-2 season.

Off three scrimmages against West Windsor, St. Anthony and Montclair Academy, Leete reported that Hun showed it could move the ball. Fullback Tim Teel and halfback Dave Dudek ran very well, he said, and Scott Smith, Sal Ammirata, Tom West, Bob Cronin and Keith MacEwan blocked very well.

"The defense is a little bit weak in the secondary," Leete continued, and he added that his staff hopes to correct the pass defense before the opener.

All but two starting positions have been set. Ammirata will be at center, with Cronin and Smith the starting guards. MacEwan will anchor the one tackle slot and either Ted Ruckstuhl or Dave Gering the other. The ends are West and Stef Myktas.

Quarterback Brian Lee will run the team. Teel is the starting fullback and either Tom Adams or Bob Cottrell will start at halfback along with Dudek. The latter is a post-graduate student from Notre Dame.

Where Were You When Tigers Last Won From Cornell in Football by 3-0 Score?

A game won by a field goal, with the losing team suffering a shutout, sends statisticians searching through the record book for similar scores. The book showed that:

- Cornell had not failed to score a point in a game since 1970.
- Princeton had not blanked an opposing team since it was involved in a scoreless tie with Columbia in 1972 and had not won by a shutout since it blanked Penn (31-0) the previous year.
- The Tigers have won many games by the margin of a field goal (including two last year, over Rutgers and Harvard) but they haven't beaten a team 3 to 0 since 1928.

The loser that year? Cornell.

PHS Football Team to Open 9-Game Schedule At Home Monday Afternoon against Lakewood

When the Princeton High School football team opens its season here Monday afternoon against Lakewood, it will have its hands full. "It's going to be a tough game," predicted Little Tiger coach Jim Beachell. "A big test right off"... and he emphasized the word 'big.'

Starting time is 3 p.m. Since the Jewish holiday, Rosh Hashanah, falls on Saturday, most area schools have opted to play on Friday instead. However, because it was feared players might not be able to return to Lakewood before sundown, the two schools choose to play on Monday- a decision that perturbs Beachell because it leaves him only four days to prepare for always physical Ewing High.

Right now, though, he is concerned with containing Lakewood, after listening to a scouting report of a Saturday scrimmage between Lakewood and another shore team. The Little Tigers will have to contend with more depth, bigger linemen and two fast backs.

Despite a disappointing final preparatory scrimmage against Freehold Saturday, Beachell promised that his team would be ready. "I give us as good as chance as any to win," he said.

PHS will try to control the ball and not make mistakes. "It's pretty much going to have to be a mistake-free game for us if we are to win," maintained Beachell.

In losing its scrimmage to Freehold, three touchdowns to none, Beachell reported that for some reason his team didn't come to play– in contrast to two earlier scrimmages. "Our line blocking just fell apart."

PHS moved the ball well in the third period but its lone chance to score evaporated when a snapback was fumbled. On the plus side, the passing, Beachell said, got better in the second half.

Depth May Decide. Lakewood operates out of a standard Slot I formation which doesn't concern Beachell nearly as much as does the visitors' depth– including a pair of 220-lb. tackles. PHS, in contrast, does not enjoy substantial depth anywhere. Its line depth, Beachell acknowledged, "is really bad."

If Lakewood's depth doesn't wear the Blue and White down, the visitors have another weapon in their arsenal: speed. "Super speed" is the way Beachell described it. "They have a quarterback who is a streak and a tailback who's a streak," he said. What's more the back-up quarterback is rumored to be faster than both.

Beachell believes that Lakewood, a member of the A Division in the strong Shore League, will be the strongest of Princeton's first three opponents. The other two are Ewing and Hun; all three are non-league games.

If the Little Tigers can get by Lakewood and Ewing without any serious injuries Beachell feels that his team "has as good as chance as anybody" of winning the newly-formed Colonial Valley League. After Hun, PHS will play all five of its league games in a row.

Starters; The starting offensive lineup for PHS has John-Paul Maman and Eric Suber at tackle, Cory Easter at center and Ron Reimann at tight end. Senior Bill Schmiedeskamp and junior Dave Viller are vying for the starting split end position.

At one guard will be co-captain Jim O'Grady. Battling for the other are Mike Long, a three-year veteran, John Morris, Brian Cleveland, and a sophomore, Paul Bessire.

Keith Wadsworth and Tony Strong will start at fullback and tailback respectively while a promising sophomore, Tom Sieler, will open at halfback. Senior Scott Thompson and sophomore Todd Blackledge are continuing their battle for the starting quarterback role. Thompson bruised his finger in the Freehold scrimmage and Beachell said he didn't know yet if it would be a factor by game time.

"We're trying to balance the team as best we can," he said.

The outlook for the opener, then, is a series of "ifs". If PHS can control the ball, if it can contain Lakewood's fleet backs, if it doesn't tire in the final period, if its own speedster Tony Strong can break one open, if the passing jells. In short, the outcome is very much up in the air.

"If you want to see how we're doing," Beachell has said in the past, "come and see us play."

Following Lakewood, here is a brief rundown of the Little Tiger's remaining eight opponents and some of Beachell's comments.

Ewing: Consistently represented by outstanding basketball and track teams, Ewing has been a long-time failure on the gridiron. Last year the Blue Devils suffered through their eighth consecutive losing season (4-5) and PHS contributed to that frustration, scoring two first period touchdowns and then hanging on to nip Ewing, 13-10.

This year may see the victory drought end. "They've got everybody back. They've got a line that averages 210 and a lot of talent in the backfield," commented Beachell. "Jerry Davis should be one of the best quarterbacks around. They've got everything they need.

Ewing coach Bruce Martz agrees. "If you can win with experience, we can certainly win." Joining Davis, a fine passer, in the backfield will be veterans Ken Hoagland, Bill Carthan and junior Mike Walker. "They'll be really tough," predicted Beachell. All PHS-Ewing contests in past years have had one common denominator: they have been bruising, physical contests.

Hun: Hun is a newcomer to the PHS schedule this year although Beachell noted that PHS has played Hun twice in the past and won both times. "They have a good PG player from Notre Dame (halfback Dave Dudek) and they had a good record last year (6-2), but other than that I don't know much about them," said

Beachell.

Hun lacks depth but has a good first team built around eight returning lettermen. Hun traditionally has featured a strong running game and coach Dave Leete plans to replace last year's wishbone offense with something new.

Hightstown: "They're talking about a 5-4 season; they're not talking about ripping the earth apart," observed Beachell, who like most other coaches in the area is relieved to see that Dana Shelton and company have graduated.

Shelton, the area's "Back of the Year" led the Rams to a 10-1 season, including a 50-8 pasting of the Little Tigers in the rain. Not only has every Ram starter departed with the exception of All-Mercer defensive end Bill Dekovitch, but so has former coach Dave McIntire.

"We're very weak on depth," says new coach Dan Colbert. "They're not as strong as last year," concurred Beachell, who nonetheless feels that Hightstown has to be rated a league favorite, "considering their overall personnel."

West Windsor: Last year, the Pirates graduated their first senior class, and for the first time coach Rex Walker has to worry about replacements. "We've got a lot of positions to fill," he said. George Noble is the lone returning starter.

"It doesn't matter what kind of season they have, they'll be ready to play. They played us tough last year," continued Beachell," who sees the beginning of a good rivalry between the two schools.

In their first meeting last year, West Windsor dropped a 21-14 decision to the Little Tigers en route to a 3-6 season. Walker, despite the rebuilding ahead, hopes to guide West Windsor to its first winning season this fall. Even if he fails, a "first-win" over PHS would do much to salvage the season.

St. Anthony. Every year it seems there is one victory that slips away, and for Princeton

PP&K WINNERS: Winners in the first round of the annual Punt, Pass and Kick competition held Sunday at Palmer Stadium are Keith Colavita, 8; Jacob Farmer, 9; Peter Ross, 10; Kyle Stevens, 11; Paul Keaney, 12, and Chris Colavite, 13. Zone competition—the next rung up—will be held Saturday morning at 9 at Rancocas Valley High School in Mount Holly.

High it was the 14-13 loss to St. Anthony. Beachell has yet to forget. "We should have won that game; we live with that one every day," he said.

Although PHS wants its revenge, it won't be easy. The Iron Mikes posted a 5-3-1 record last year – their best in more than 10 years – and they have a large number of their squad returning. One is halfback John Chiarello who gained almost 800 yards last year and tormented the Little Tigers with his rushing.

"They're going to have a good team," Beachell acknowledged. He also pointed out that St. Anthony has grown in the last few years to the point where it is as large as Notre Dame.

St. Anthony is the preseason pick to win the first Colonial Valley league championship and coach Tony Nitti agrees that his Iron Mikes have a slight edge over the other five league teams "on paper."

Lawrence: Having been on top in previous years, coach Ed Shirk's Lawrence High Cardinals came down to earth last fall, winning three, losing five and tying one. Among the losses: a 13-0 shutout by the Little Tigers.

Beachell sees a future for the Cardinals. "Last year's freshman team," he pointed out, "won the Mercer County championship. They have a lot of nice players coming up. They're always tough and well-coached." Defense seems to be Cards' strength, led by guard Keith Kovach and tackle Frank Pasquito.

Notre Dame: What can one say about a team that has lost its last 18 in a row? (Included in the string was Princeton's biggest 1975 win, a 33-0 whitewash.) Well, new Irish coach Chappy Moore predicts, "We're going to win a couple this year."

Beachell commented that Moore, a former coach in the Philadelphia Catholic League and on the Villanova staff last year, "has a lot of talent there. He's talking of winning one or two games; I hope it isn't us.

"They've got the size, they can recruit. They can draw from any high school in the area."

Two returning on the ND squad are fullback Jeff Schrader and defensive lineman Larry Morton. Both were named to the 1975 All-Mercer third team.

Trenton: One of the puzzlements of recent years is why a school as large as Trenton has fared so poorly on the field. PHS played probably its best game of the season last year in coming from behind to nip the Tornadoes in a hectic final period – sending the losers home with a 2-6-1 record.

But Beachell warned this is not the year to shed any tears for THS. "They've got 31 seniors returning. That should be enough. Size? You wouldn't believe some of their players." In addition, Beachell said that the Tornadoes have a lot of experience, including undefeated freshmen and sophomore teams.

Actually, Trenton has "only" 28 seniors returning – half of them lettermen. As Beachell indicated, that should be more than enough for coach Mark Bailey to turn the team around. Top players to watch are speedster Keith Jones and flanker Melvin Pinckney.

PDS HOPES TO REGROUP

After Opening Game Disaster. Not more than a couple of minutes had ticked off the clock in Princeton Day School's opening football game last Friday afternoon against Chestnut Hill, but the contest was unofficially over.

The Panthers had kicked off to the home team, and held them on the first two plays from scrimmage. Then on third down a sophomore speedster named George Bailey hit the left side of the PDS line, cut to the outside, and was gone, 64 yards into the eod zone.

The young Blue and White team never did recover from the shock, and Chestnut Hill rolled on to a 46-0 romp, with Bailey scoring three more times in the half, once on a 68-yard punt return. It was 34-0 at the intermission.

No matter how bad the defeat, one game does not make a season, and the Panthers will find things much more to their liking this Friday, for their home opener against Englewood, beginning at 3:30.

Last week in its first game, Englewood blanked Morristown-Beard 13-0. Rob Hoffman, who got a rude initiation in his first effort as varsity football coach, commented that "it's a game we can win, if we do what we can do."

Hoffman was impressed by Englewood's passing attack, which features a good quarterback pitching to a pair of tall receivers. "They run a lot of deep post and flag patterns," Hoffman observed. Their running game and defense are nothing special, he added.

The Silver Lining Dept. Even in a 46-0 defeat, there are bright spots that take away some of the sting. Hoffman was generally pleased with the PDS attack, which showed well from its 20 to the Chestnut Hill 20.

Mark Zawadsky and Rob Olsson had 34 carries between them, each gaining around 75 yards. The passing generated about 70 more. Once inside the 20 however, PDS was unable to make the crucial third down plays. A closer contest might have provided more incentive.

One change Hoffman will make for the Englewood game will be to put freshman Jeff Freda in place of Dave Barondess at quarterback. "They are just about equal at the position," Hoffman pointed out. "But no one can match Barondess at split end. He'll be very valuable there." Hoffman added that he planned to utilize Barondess' place kicking ability at the first opportunity.

The trip to Philadelphia did end on a successful note. A dinner for the team had been scheduled after the game at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, and some 91 people attended. "The support shown by parents and friends was very gratifying," Hoffman commented.

OPENER FRIDAY

for W. Windsor In Football. A rebuilding West Windsor-Plainsboro High School football team will open its season Friday when it will travel to Hammonton for a 4 p.m. contest.

"Hammonton," said West Windsor coach Rex Walker, who has scouted them twice, "has a nice offensive club. They're very conservative but quick and hard-hitting. There are no breathers on our schedule," he added. "We don't know what a breather is."

West Windsor, which graduated its first senior class last year in compiling a 3-6 record, lost 14 seniors. "This is definitely a rebuilding year,' said Walker. "We have a lot of sophomores and juniors in starting positions,' There are only seven seniors on the squad.

"We're coming around, we'll be respectable," said Walker. The problem, he said, was to gain experience soon enough so as not to make too many mistakes.

"We're a typical young team," he commented after watching his squad in scrimmages against Florence, Point Pleasant Beach, Hun and Monroe. "We move the ball well between the

Mike Shillaber, Jr. to Oppose Jack Mudge For Springdale Golf Club Title Saturday

Mike Shillaber, Jr. will play Jack Mudge Saturday in a 36-hole match for the championship of Springdale Golf Club.

The winner will succeed Scott Quackenbush, whom Mudge eliminated Sunday, 1 up. The latter, who had led most of the way, was a 6-and-5 victor in his quarter-final match over Bob Lewis. Quackenbush won his first match last weekend when he defeated his father, Bill, 4 and 3.

Shillaber also recorded a victory over a former club champion Sunday when he edged Mosey Gates on the 19th green. One down on the 18th tee, and never ahead in the match, he drew even when he parred the 18th. He won when he sank a 25-foot downhill putt from just off the green on the first extra hole for a birdie 3. Gates won last Saturday, 6 and 4, over Jim Litvack while Shillaber was a 3-and-2 victor over his brother Dave.

The winner of the First Flight will be determined in a match Saturday between Kester Pierson and Pat Rulon-Miller. Pierson won both his matches last weekend, 6 and 5 over Jack Sweeney and 3 and 2 over Steve Fillo.

Rulon-Miller was the winner in the tournament's longest match, one that ended on the third extra hole where his par 4 ousted Jack Petrone. After Rulon-Miller won the 18th to draw even, both men shot par figures on the first two extra holes before Rulon-Miller prevailed. He had won, 5 and 4, from Dick Leibler to reach the finals, after Leibler had ousted Tom Brophy, 2 up.

Ross Shrader will face Lyle Fitch in the Second Flight finals. The latter won from Frank Crecca, 2 and 1, after advancing on a default by Bob Cronin. Crecca earlier had been a 7-and-6 winner over John Ellsworth. Shrader won his matches last weekend from Kline Fulmer, 7 and 6, and John Budd, 4 and 3. Fulmer was a 5-and-3 victor over Stan Wilson.

In the Third Flight finals, Pete Budd will play John Brophy. Budd edged Lester Robbins, 1 up, and defeated Ted Tams, 6 and 5. Robbins was a winner by that margin over Bill Turgeon to reach the semi-finals. Brophy won, 4 and 3, in his semi-final bracket over Burt Edmunds, and the previous day, 5 and 3, over George Ford. Edmunds advanced Saturday with a 2 and 1 victory over Mike Curtin.

40s but when we start to drive near the goal, we get nervous. We have trouble putting points on the board."

If the Pirates can stay respectable this year, Walker believes that he and his staff, which he described as the strongest he has ever had, can turn the football program around. He reported that the school has a good group of freshmen coming up that will be able to blend with this year's young team.

"If we can keep the interest and the kids motivated, next year we'll be on our own feet."

Only a Few Return. Walker has only a handful of returning veterans. George Noble is back at one of the guard positions and "doing a good job," said Walker. Chris Holcombe, a defensive tackle and back will play both positions again this year. Defensive back Dave Watson and a backup quarterback last fall will be the starting quarterback.

A tentative starting lineup by Walker has Gordon Simonson at center, Noble and Scott Hanson at guard and Elmer Duncan and Rick Maston at tackle. Jeff Mertz is the starting tight end and either Jim Scheideler or Dave Bornheimer the split end.

In addition to Watson and Holcombe in the backfield, Jerry Emerson and Brian Hokom will alternate at flanker and Ron Dilatush and sophomore Joe Davis will do the same at halfback.

Walker is starting his third season as head coach. He is being assisted by Ken Ken Bernabe (varsity line) and freshman coaches Ray Veth and Rolla Warner. Two newcomers are John Rabuck, a former quarterback and end at Rutgers and an all-state player at Bethlehem High School in Pennsylvania, and Lou Christiansen, a graduate of Springfield College. They will handle the defense and backs.

PDS, PHS TIE 0-0

In Soccer Opener. Four regular periods and two overtimes failed to produce a single score, but there was action aplenty last Friday as Princeton Day and Princeton High met on the soccer field. It was the season's opener for both schools.

This Friday the Panthers will meet George School at home at 3:30. A contest with Morristown-Beard was scheduled to be played Wednesday away.

"We were like a fighter that ran out of punches and got tired," commented coach Tom DeVito. PDS had several shots that just missed in the early part of the game, including a couple by Mike Walters, but PHS playing primarily a defensive game at the start, was able to turn back all the Panther thrusts. PDS outshot the visitors 28-11.

As the game wore on the play began to get more even, with the ball moving from one end of the field to the other, and finally PHS had the edge for a while near the end of regulation time. The two overtimes saw the sides evenly matched with plenty of hustle by both, but no scores.

DeVito praised the defensive play of his two fullbacks, Andy Sanford and Quinn McCord, sweepback Dave Malley and goalie Rob McClellan.

VETERAN SQUAD BACK

For PDS In Girls' Soccer. Led by its co-captains, halfback Susan Paine and fullback Sandra Benson, the Princeton Day girls' soccer team is looking to improve on last year's 4-6-1 record, aided by several returning letterwomen on the veteran squad.

Last year's leading scorer, Alexis Arlett returns at striker, along with Ann McAlpin, who will also play striker. Following in the footsteps of their three soccer-playing older brothers, two Ferrante girls will start, Virginia, a freshman at wing, and Catherine, a junior, at halfback.

Three girls are contending for the other wing spot, senior Christy Black, Sophomore Ann Merrick and senior AFS student Ann Nesbacken from Holland. Livia Wong is set at center halfback and Drew Rosenberg at another halfback slot. Clooie Sherman will play sweeperback. Julia Penick will start in the other fullback slot and Carolyn Hartshorne will be goalie.

PDS athletic director Alan Taback will coach the team, which opened its season this past Tuesday against Edison High School. This Friday, an away game against J.P. Stevens is scheduled.
